Bobo and the Cost of Alaska

I see by the papers that Bobo Rockefeller, 37, the coal miner's daughter, has won a divorce settlement of $5,500,000, which suggests that somewhere along the way she picked up bargaining skills of John L. Lewis, chief of the miner's union.

It also startles one a bit to consider that Bobo has settled for an amount just a little shy of what Secretary Seward paid the Russians for Alaska and more than a third of what Thomas Jefferson paid Napoleon for the 827,192 square miles of land known as the Louisiana Purchase.

We gave the Russians a little more than $7,000,000 for the territory of Alaska. The good, solid, practical people of the time assailed Secretary Seward vigorously for his wasteful use of the taxpayers' money and the purchase was laughed at up and down the nation as "Seward's Folly."

Jefferson was similarly accused and a few of the more practical, hard-headed, common-sense people of his time sought to impeach him for spending 15,000,000 good, sound dollars for the wilderness from which later we made four states and parts of nine others. (Arkansas, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska and parts of Louisiana, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota.)

Bobo

Bobo's settlement also was more than half that of the $10,000,000 we paid for the 29,670 square miles of territory in New Mexico and Arizona known as the Gadsden Purchase.

I am not quite sure what all of this proves, save that divorces are very costly things for those who can pay for them, and dirt cheap for those who can't, as the court calendars in in any county will demonstrate.

Winthrop Rockefeller, who lives in one of the states formed out of the Louisiana Purchase (Arkansas), apparently neither winced nor cried aloud at the settlement. The word from Little Rock is that he considered it a bargain roughly equivalent to that made by Seward and Jefferson, but that is hearsay.

Winthrop Rockefeller lives in Arkansas and is firmly put down there. He dwells on top of a beautiful, craggy mountain called "Petit Jean" by the French explorers who early came up the Arkansas River. It overlooks that now silted up and historic stream. The view, they say, is one of pastoral serenity, calculated to sooth the nerves of a man who has agreed with seeming alacrity to a $5,500,000 settlement.

Rancher

He has developed on his mountain top a ranch for the breeding of the famous Santa Gertrudis bulls, the strain developed by the King Ranch in Texas. This breed, which is part Brahma from India, part Shorthorn and Hereford, is bothered not at all by hot weather, but thrives mightily and loses no weight.

Winthrop Rockefeller paid $53,000 for his first two bulls. He has installed a magnificent system of irrigation, being forewarned about the increasing drought conditions, and not wishing to bother with wells, the river being handy down there at the foot of Petit Jean.

Not only that, but Winthrop Rockfeller is happier there than he has ever been anywhere else. He repeatedly says so himself. The general impression, when he first arrived, was that he might be interested in Arkansas' divorce laws, which are relatively easy on the distressed. He wasn't.

But, he was interested in Arkansas itself. During the war he got to be close friends with two men from that state who took him for what he was—just a good guy. They treated him as such. One of those war-time promises to get together after the war was made. And Rockefeller kept it. He liked what he saw and bought in. He and his two friends get together often to talk old times. He will use the ranch as a permanent home, residence and base. To be sure he will be gone a lot. But it will be home. Arkansas genuinely likes him. And he is a good, solid citizen.

There are no Bobo fan clubs in Arkansas.

Anyhow, it somehow startled me that Bobo had got almost as much to call it quits as we paid for Alaska.

EVANGELIST, NUDISTS STRUGGLE OVER "CRUSADE" FILMS
The Rev. Braxton Sawyer Loses Camera and Film

Evangelist Tossed Out By Nudists

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 4—(AP)—A crusading evangelist who invaded a nudist camp today with a movie camera said he was "tromped on and thrown out by at least a dozen men," but the nudists themselves said he was welcome to return anytime he wished if he would shed his clothes like the others.

Dr. Braxton B. Sawyer, who delivers daily sermons over 27 radio stations in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, appeared at the gate of the Sunshine Gardens resort for the opening of the national convention of the American Sunbathing Association.

"You can't come in here like that," an attendant said.

"Like what?" the evangelist asked.

REFUSES TO DISROBE

"With your clothes on," said the attendant, standing in his all-together. "You know the rules."

Sawyer said he refused to disrobe and was chased into a nearby field where he stood alone for nearly an hour, taking motion pictures from a distance.

Police were called by the operators of the camp and a compromise was reached whereby Sawyer was allowed to take pictures within a limited area.

"All of a sudden a big station wagon rolled into camp and they forgot all about me for a while," the minister said in his Battle Creek hotel room tonight.

TREASURE CHEST

"They were all looking at that Evelyn Chest—or West—that show person who calls herself the Treasure Chest Girl. Well, I took pictures of her for about five minutes before someone saw me. Then at least 12 men walked toward me and told me to surrender my movie camera.

"I told them if they took one more step I'd let them have the camera right in the face—and I meant it. Then they jumped on me and dragged me in the dust. One man jumped on my back with his knees. They pushed my face in the dirt. Then they took my camera."

Sawyer said they took out the movie film and handed the camera back to him.

The minister holds a doctor of divinity degree from Southern Theological Seminary (Baptist) at Louisville, Ky. At present he is affiliated with the Billy Graham evangelical movement.

Hand Says Photostat Proves Griffin Pardon

Fred Hand stepped up his attacks on rival gubernatorial candidates in Columbus Wednesday night when he showed televiewers what he called proof that Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin had pardoned himself from a 20-day jail sentence while he was executive secretary to former Gov. Ed Rivers.

Earlier in the day the House speaker took a swing at M. E. Thompson, charging that the former acting governor not only "refuses to discuss his opponents," but also "refuses to discuss his record."

(Other political stories on pages 8 and 14.)

Bidding for west Georgia votes Wednesday night on a Columbus television station, Hand produced a photostatic copy of the pardon which he said freed Griffin from a jail term to which he was sentenced on a contempt of court charge after throwing Highway Director Lint Miller out of office and down the steps of the State Highway Building in 1939, despite a restraining order.

"Don't ask me where I got it," Hand told WRBL-TV viewers. "All I can tell you is it's still in existence. It's locked up in a safe at the home of a prominent state official."

"When Ed Rivers couldn't put over his asphalt deals because Lint Miller wouldn't go along, Rivers sent his strong-arm man, Marvin Griffin, over to throw Miller out of office," Hand charged.

"And big, brave Marvin picked up little, 120-pound Lint Miller and threw him down the steps of the Highway Building," he said.

"Lint Miller had gotten a court order restraining Ed and his bouncer, Marvin, from bothering him. And after Marvin's little act, Superior Court Judge Will R. Smith of Nashville summoned him into court and sentenced him to 20 days in jail for contempt of court."

Hand charged that "pardoning Marvin" appealed the case and signed a pardon for himself the night Rivers left office.

Superior Court Judge T. Hicks Fort of the Chattahoochee Judicial Circuit, a staunch Talmadge supporter, introduced Hand to the television audience and announced his endorsement of the Pelham businessman.

Thompson, meanwhile, in an address before two television audiences in Augusta, continued to steer clear of name-calling, but charged that Hand and Griffin blocked workmen's compensation proposals in the General Assembly to aid Georgia laborers. He re-

Ex-Russell Jury Chief Jailed in Lottery Cases

Special to The Constitution

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Aug. 4—Charles W. Franklin, foreman of the last Russell County grand jury, was jailed here Wednesday. And in Gadsden, Lee Porter was quoted as admitting he received contributions from Phenix City gamblers in his losing race for attorney general.

Conrad Fowler, assistant to Acting Russell Solicitor George C. Johnson Jr., said Franklin is being charged with several counts of operating a lottery. He said the warrants were being prepared by his office.

Porter, a Gadsden attorney, said ousted Circuit Solicitor Arch Ferrell arranged a meeting with the Phenix City gamblers after telling him they "quit the business in 1951."

Franklin was foreman of the last Russell County grand jury to hold a session before the special jury was impaneled by special Judge Walter B. Jones. Franklin's jury was known as the "screen door" grand jury because its chief recommendation was to have a door fixed at the courthouse.

Lt. James Fuller, of the acting sheriff's office, confirmed that Franklin was being held in jail and said "numerous" lottery charges were being filed against him. Franklin was one of several

Conferees Restore Part Of Aid Cut

$3,054,568,000 Compromise Set

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—A House-Senate conference committee restored $314,040,000 to the foreign aid program today shortly after President Eisenhower deplored whopping Senate cuts as too deep for the safety of the free world.

The fast-moving committee approved a $3,054,568,000 authorization bill by splitting the difference between House and Senate totals voted for military and economic aid. There also were minor adjustments in other sections of the huge measure.

The final aid figure, still to be approved by both branches of Congress, compared with $3,440,000,000 originally requested by the administration. Eisenhower told his news conference today that request had been cut to the bone.

The President termed the Senate cuts very unfortunate and said they would hurt the United States. He said those who proposed the reductions lacked a clear understanding of Communist goals and what this country is trying to do to combat them.

The Senate voted to cut more than $400,000,000 from the authorization bill yesterday on top of deep cuts already ordered in the President's original request by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

That brought the Senate figure to about $2,740,528,000, compared to the $3,368,608,000 authorized by the House for the 12 months which started July 1. Both figures include only new money and do not cover funds left over from past years.

Funds for the program will be voted in separate legislation. The House already has voted $2,896,000,000 in new funds and $2,312,475,979 in carryover funds. The Senate Appropriations Committee still is working on its money bill.

House Okays Immunity for Witnesses

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The House approved another key bill in President Eisenhower's anti-subversive program today — a measure to grant immunity from prosecution to witnesses who aid in the anti-Communist drive.

The measure, approved by a roll call vote of 293 to 55, now goes back to the Senate for concurrence in House amendments. The Senate originally passed the measure last year.

The bill is designed to obtain testimony against suspected spies and traitors from persons who otherwise would invoke the fifth amendment as protection against possible self-incrimination.

The house version would vest the authority to grant immunity in the federal courts. It would apply to congressional hearings and court trials but would be limited to national security cases involving treason, espionage, sabotage and other forms of subversion.

Ike Scores Latest Slur On Marshall

By JOHN D. MORRIS
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—President Eisenhower delivered a dramatic two-minute eulogy of Gen. George C. Marshall today in response to new slurs on the character of the wartime chief of staff.

The President, earnest to the point of conceding that he was almost emotional on the subject, told his news conference that Gen. Marshall typified "all that we look for in what we call an American patriot." He offered proof of the general's "selflessness" and praised his ability and dedication to his work.

SORRY REWARD

"I think it is a sorry reward, at the end of at least 50 years of service to this country, to say that he is not a loyal, fine American and that he served only in order to advance his own personal ambitions," the President asserted.

"I can't imagine anyone I have known in my career of whom this is less so than it is in his case."

The President's remarks were prompted by publication of a letter in which Harry O. Woodring, secretary of war under President Franklin D. Roosevelt from 1936 to 1940, assailed Gen. Marshall as an opportunist. The letter, dated June 23, 1954, was put into the Congressional Record by Sen. McCarthy.

WOODRING QUOTED

In it, the former Cabinet officer, now living in Topeka, Kan., said Gen. Marshall "would sell out his grandmother for personal advantage" and "sell out his policies, beliefs and standards to maintain his political and military position with the powers that so be."

"What do you think of that appraisal of Gen. Marshall?" Eisenhower was asked.

The President, tense and erect, stood silent a few moments and then slowly and deliberately gave his reply. He emphasized his words by inaudibly striking the palm of his right hand with his left fist.

The White House later put additional emphasis on the incident by authorizing reporters to quote the President directly.

The President's praise of Gen. Marshall, with whom he was closely associated in World War II as Supreme Commander of the

Iran Ending 3-Year-Old Oil Dispute

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 4 (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi of Iran has approved an agreement ending the three-year-old Anglo-Iranian oil dispute which will put Iranian petroleum back on world markets, informed sources said today.

The agreement, approved by the Shah in a half-hour meeting today with finance minister Ali Amini, will be announced officially tomorrow.

Amini will release the communique and explain details of the settlement reached by Iran and eight international oil companies.

Representatives of the combine, which includes five American firms, one British, one French and one Dutch company, also will explain the settlement.

Iran announced three days ago that it would pay the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. less than $84,000,000 compensation for the properties nationalized by the government of Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh in 1951. The compensation does not include the Abadan refinery installations.

Herbert Hoover Jr., son of the former U.S. President, played a major role in bringing about the agreement. Selected as chief troubleshooter by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, he made 14 trips to London and five to Tehran since last September.

The compensation agreement, far less than the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. asked, cleared the way for the final settlement by Iran and the combine. The five American companies are: Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Socony-Vacuum, Texas Oil and Gulf Oil.

Soviets' Plane Kick

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Russia has complained to the United States again that American military planes are systematically flying over Soviet merchant ships in the Formosa area in violation of the freedom of the seas, Moscow radio reported tonight.

New Estimate Ups Deficit Expectations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Humphrey notified Senate Finance Committee members today that he will ask tomorrow for a permanent $10,000,000,000 increase in the national debt limit.

Humphrey also supplied committee members with fresh estimates showing the administration expects a budget deficit of $4,000,000,000 in the current fiscal year ending June 30. This compares with the $2,900,000,000 estimate contained in President Eisenhower's budget message last January.

OVER BY DECEMBER

Humphrey said that according to his estimates the national debt would push through the present ceiling of $275,000,000,000 by Dec. 15.

The administration asked Congress a year ago to raise the debt limit by $15,000,000,000 to $290,000,000,000. The House agreed but the Senate Finance Committee shelved the bill after concluding that the Treasury could scrape through the year without a change.

Humphrey's new request was sure to run into heavy opposition from Sen. Byrd (D-Va), who led the fight to shelve last year's bill. Byrd said a few days ago that he still had to be convinced that an increase in the debt limit was necessary.

An authoritative congressional source disclosed that Humphrey estimated federal spending at $65,600,000,000 in the current fiscal year, the same as Mr. Eisenhower's January budget.

REVENUE ESTIMATE

However, Humphrey estimated revenues this year at $61,500,000,000, down $1,200,000,000 from the January forecast.

The Treasury's projection of spending and income on a month-by-month basis showed that it expects the present debt ceiling to be punctured by Dec. 15. It anticipates the debt will remain above that level until March 15.

It was understood Byrd was prepared to demand that any legislation be limited to a temporary increase of about $5,000,000,000. Under his plan, the limit would drop back to $275,000,000,000 when the critical months were past.

Meet Called To Avert Strike at Atom Plants

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service today called a meeting here tomorrow in an effort to head off a threatened strike at the government atomic plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky.

Whitley P. McCoy, director of the service, said officials of the Carbide & Carbon Corp.—which operates the plants—and the gas coke and chemical workers (CIO) have been called to meet at 2 p.m. (EDT) to explore a wage controversy at the plants.

The atomic workers struck sometime ago over the wage issue but later returned to their jobs.

Buford City Commissioner Jailed In Fight With Methodist Minister

Special to The Constitution

BUFORD, Aug. 4—Arnold E. Hamner, wealthy timberman and member of the Buford City Commission and school board, was in Gwinnett County jail at Lawrenceville Wednesday on four warrants charging he attacked a Methodist minister with a pistol here Tuesday.

The warrants, charging Hamner with assault with intent to murder, pointing a pistol at another, assault and battery and carrying a pistol, were sworn out by officers of the Buford Methodist Church Board of Stewards.

A member of the board, who asked that his name not be used, said the warrants were sworn out to "protect our preacher."

The minister, the Rev. Henry G. Walker, a former boxer, could not be reached for comment.

The Board of Stewards member, speaking about the flareup, said: "It's been brewing for about six or seven months now." He said nobody knew exactly what the disagreement was all about.

Versions of the battle, which took place in the study of the Rev. Mr. Walker's church, differed. The spokesman for the Board of Stewards said the Rev. Mr. Walker told them at a meeting Tuesday night that Hamner struck him with a pistol and then threatened to kill him. He said the Rev. Mr. Walker told them he started talking to Hamner, then suddenly grabbed the hand which held the gun, struck Hamner and in a fight which followed the city commissioner finally dropped the pistol and slugged him with a pair of pliers.

He said the Rev. Mr. Walker told them he finally broke loose and rushed out of the study to the house "to get his own gun" and when he returned Hamner was gone.

In his jail cell in Lawrenceville, Hamner gave a different version of the encounter. He said he had no gun. "The only mention of a gun was when the preacher said, 'Dora (Mrs. Walker) has a gun and she'll kill you if she ever sees you come in this office.'"

Hamner said he went to the

Naming Seen Today For M'Carthy Panel

Report George, Millikin Have Eliminated Selves

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) predicted tonight a six-member special committee to investigate charges of unbecoming conduct against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) will be named tomorrow.

Knowland told newsmen he thinks the announcement should be made before the full Senate. Previously he had indicated the names of those chosen might be made public tonight.

Although many senators have said they would decline to serve on the group for various reasons, Knowland said there was "no problem" about naming the personnel.

NO RECOMMENDATIONS

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said merely he had made "no recommendations to anyone" as yet about the three Democratic members of the bipartisan group.

Vice President Nixon is to appoint the committee, under terms of a resolution passed Monday by the Senate, but he will act on recommendations of the majority and minority leaders.

Senators George (D-Ga), and Millikin (R-Colo), were reported to have eliminated themselves from consideration for appointment to the group and the Senate leaders were said to have settled on some of the younger members in point of service to take on the task.

THIS SESSION

The committee is to investigate the varied charges brought against McCarthy by Sens. Flanders (R-Vt), Fulbright (D-Ark), Morse (Ind-Ore) and others, and report back before Congress adjourns.

For the three Republican memberships on the special committee, Knowland was said to be working from a list that included Sens. Martin (Pa), Thye (Minn), Millikin (Colo), Bennett (Utah), Crippa (Wyo), Barrett (Wyo), Hickenlooper (Iowa), Carlson (Kan), Case (SD) and Payne (Me).

In the efforts of Sen. Johnson to fill the Democratic posts, these senators were said to be under close consideration:

Byrd (Va), George (Ga), Russell (Ga), Stennis (Miss), Hayden (Ariz), Daniel (Tex), Sparkman (Ala), Holland (Fla.), Pastore (RI), Edwin C. Johnson (Colo) and Ervin (NC).

FINISH IT

Meanwhile, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), a member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which handled the McCarthy-Army hearings, told a news conference:

"I think the whole McCarthy controversy—both with respect to the Army-McCarthy hearings and the charges of censure—should be disposed of before the Senate adjourns."

Chairman Mundt (R-SD), who served as chairman in the McCarthy-Army hearings, said the subcommittee has agreed to try to report its findings before the adjournment of Congress, now expected around Aug. 14.

Man Hiccups Afflicted For 7 Years Is Dead

YORK, Pa., Aug. 4 (AP)—Earl H. Dorsey, 60, who suffered from attacks of hiccups for the last seven years, died at York Hospital today. An autopsy was ordered to determine the exact cause of death.

The man's widow said he first was seized with hiccups seven years ago, suffered numerous attacks after that and they became so frequent three years ago that he was forced to retire from work. Since then, she said, the attacks had been practically constant.

Don't Mix Drinks With Strangers, Russians Warned

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Anybody in the Soviet Union who is chatty or who accepts a drink from a stranger is bait for foreign spies, Moscow Radio warned Russians today.

Calling for increased vigilance, the broadcast said, "Foreign intelligence services are endeavoring to use remnants of capitalism in the consciousness of a certain part of the Soviet people."

The broadcast warned:

"Foreign intelligence service agents make a special point of finding people who like to have a drink because, as the saying goes, a drunken person says that which a sober person thinks."

Kefauver, Sutton, Clement, Browning To Get Verdict From Voters Today

Sen. Kefauver — Rep. Sutton

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4 (AP)—Estes Kefauver, who tried for the presidential nomination two years ago and may try again in 1956, fights it out for a second U. S. Senate term against Rep. Pat Sutton in Tennessee's Democratic primary tomorrow.

In another bitterly fought contest, Frank Clement, at 34 the nation's youngest governor, bids for renomination against Gordon Browning, 64, whom he unseated in 1952. This time, due to a constitutional change, they are running for a four-year instead of a two-year term.

Whoever wins nomination tomorrow is virtually certain of victory in the November general election in this overwhelmingly Democratic state.

SCARCE

Republicans, scarce except in the 1st and 2nd districts, do not have a gubernatorial candidate in the primary.

The names of Ray H. Jenkins, Knoxville lawyer who served as counsel for the Senate subcommittee hearing the Army-McCarthy squabble, and Robert Gregory, a lawyer of Memphis, are on the ballot for the GOP senatorial nomination. But Jenkins, whose name got there by accident, has emphasized he would not be a candidate in November, even if nominated.

Issues have been few in this summer's campaign but name-calling and mud-heaving have not. Old timers call it the most bitter in history—which, if true, makes for a new high in this state which takes politics seriously.

RECORD

Clement has relied on his record during his first two years. Browning has concentrated his fire on that record. Charges of liar, corruption, fraud, and immorality were commonplace.

Secretary of State G. Edward Friar and Comptroller Jeanne Bodfish have broken with the governor but have not announced support of Browning, either.

In the Senate campaign, Sutton has hedge-hopped into nearly every town and hamlet in the state by helicopter.

Making as many as eight or 10 speeches a day, he has accused Kefauver of being an internationalist, a left-winger and traitor to the South. In the midst of his campaign, Sutton has been named defendant in libel suits totaling about 3 million dollars for statements in radio broadcasts.

METHODICAL

Kefauver, aided now and then by his beautiful wife, Nancy, has conducted a methodical handshaking campaign, traveling mostly by automobile. His friends say he would like to try for the presidency again in 1956.

He has defended his own record during his first term in the Senate, accusing Sutton of failure to attend congressional sessions or to support legislation in the interest of the common people.

Two other candidates have qualified for the Senate race but neither has conducted any extensive campaign.

Chattanooga Criminal Court Judge Raulston Schoolfield qualified late in the campaign for the governorship race. His primary platform plank has been in favor of segregated schools.

6 U.S. Ships Salute British Queen Mother

LONDON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Six American warships fired salutes to Queen Mother Elizabeth of Britain today on her 54th birthday.

The U. S. vessels, calling at Portsmouth, joined warships of the Royal Navy in ceremonial salutes which echoed from British ships around the world.

In London, a 41-gun salute boomed from batteries in Hyde Park and a 62-shot salute thundered from the Tower of London. Flags flew from all public buildings to honor the shy Scotswoman who has become a Royal elder at a relatively early age.

U.S. Insists Reds Pay For Attack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The United States told Red China today it cannot dodge responsibility to the American government for Americans killed and injured in the shooting down of a British airliner by Communist fighters July 23.

Once more Washington demanded that the Communist regime at Peiping:

1. Punish the persons responsible "for the criminal attack" on the airliner and take measures to prevent any repetition.

2. Arrange compensation for three Americans who were injured in the crash and for the families of three others killed.

The United States strongly protested the incident last week, making formal demands for compensation and preventive measures.

The Peiping regime brushed aside the protest on the ground that the incident was one between it and the British government because the aircraft was British.

Since the United States does not recognize Communist China the exchange between Washington and Peiping has been handled by the British government.

Today's note said that in view of the deaths and injuries to Americans "the Chinese Communist authorities cannot, under established international law, dispose of their responsibility to make compensation to the United States government by asserting that the matter is one between the Chinese Communist and British governments."

X-Ray Eye Seizes Big Gem Cache

NE YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—A robot customs inspector with an "X-ray eye" has foiled an attempt to smuggle $200,000 worth of diamonds into the United States in the hollowed-out sides of a wooden box containing glassware, the government disclosed today.

The 2,000 carats of gem-cut diamonds, packed in 20 little bags, constituted the largest haul of contraband from a freight shipment in the history of the port, officials said. Four persons were arrested in connection with the shipment.

The seizure so impressed customs agents with the usefulness of the new electronic "inspectorscope" that plans were made to put similar gadgets in other ports to examine suspicious looking packages.

The diamonds were discovered in a wooden packing box, about two by two by three feet in size, that arrived at Idlewild International Airport last week as freight aboard a Scandinavian airliner. Customs agents decided to "look" into the box with their inspectorscope, and in it they found an ornate cut-glass pitcher and two glasses packed in excelsior.

But tucked in hollowed-out sections of the sides of the crate, which had been sent from Friedberg, Germany, were the small diamonds, ready to be mounted for use as jewelry.

The shipment was addressed to David Klapholz, a Bronx manufacturer of soda fountains, and his wife, Paula. They were arrested when they appeared at the airport to claim the shipment Monday, customs officials said.

Schulim J. Kanner and Mrs. Deborah Muller were arrested when they went to the Klapholz residence to get the gems, agents said.

Army Again Suspends Mrs. Moss in Risk Case

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Army today suspended Mrs. Annie Lee Moss from her Pentagon job for the second time pending final settlement of her security case.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) said at a session of his investigating subcommittee last February that the 48-year-old Negro woman had been and may still be "an active member of the Communist Party."

Mrs. Moss denied the charge under oath at a televised hearing.

A former FBI undercover agent, Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, told the subcommittee that a Negro woman named Annie Lee Moss was a Communist "as early as 1944" and worked in the Defense Department cafeteria at the time.

GIVEN STATEMENT

The Army said today Mrs. Moss has been given a "statement of the issues" and she may request a hearing before a security hearing board within 30 days.

It said her case was re-opened "on the basis of information which was not previously available and which has not been satisfactorily resolved by an investigation." It did not elaborate.

McCarthy commented: "This is a good, healthy indication that they are tightening up on security regulations and Bob Stevens should be complimented."

SYMINGTON MUM

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), who once promised Mrs. Moss that he would see that she got a job if the Army did not reinstate her after an earlier suspension, declined to comment.

Mrs. Moss was transferred in late January from her job as operator of a machine which transmitted coded messages. She was given a "non-sensitive" position in the Signal Corps supply section, typing record cards.

She was suspended from her $3,335-a-year post in late February. At the end of 30 days when no charges were brought against her she was permitted by law to return to work.

The Army said today she has been working "without security clearance and without access to classified information and material." It had stated previously her case was under study before McCarthy brought it up.

Women Up in Air Over U.S. Army Order Barring Bare Legs, Midriffs in Germany

FRANKFURT, Aug. 4 (AP)—The U.S. Army stirred up a hornet's nest among GI wives and daughters today by barring bare midriff dresses, shorts and other items of casual attire from Army installations.

The edict was contained in a crisp official directive of the Army's northern area command in Germany. It said "Positive action will be taken to enforce these regulations."

The Army ladies were up in arms. They were particularly infuriated by a not-so-subtle clause forbidding "mature women" to wear blue jeans.

"Just let anyone call me mature," said a captain's wife defiantly.

The directive, signed by Col. John R. Dilley, a married man, said:

"The attire being worn in public by some American women is not in good taste. . . . Women dressed improperly will not be permitted to enter U.S. installations to which the public has access."

"No bare-back, halter-type sunsuits may be worn without a jacket or wrap. No bare midriff costumes. No strapless, low-cut dresses except in clubs on appropriate social functions. No shorts on teen-agers or women. No levis (blue jeans) on mature women. No pin curlers, or any curlers on hair unless neatly covered by suitable scarf or headgear. . . ."

It was predicted that the women had not had their final say.

Aiken Pledges High Pegs If Flexible Supports Pass

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) promised today that if Congress approves flexible farm price supports, all of next year's basic crops except wheat will be pegged at or above 85 per cent of parity.

A proposed "set aside" of 2½ billion dollars worth of farm surpluses already held by the government will make this possible even if Congress authorizes support prices ranging down to 80 per cent of parity, he tod the Senate.

Parity is a price determined by farm law to be fair to the farmer in relation to the cost of things he must buy.

The "set aside," in effect removing that quantity of produce from the market, is an integral part of President Eisenhower's flexible farm program. Aiken said, and would be dropped if high-level, rigid supports are extended.

The key issue of flexible vs. rigid support levels cropped up soon after the Senate began debate on a proposed general revision of farm laws. Republican Leader Knowland of California said he expects the debate to continue for two to three days.

Aiken, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, asked the Senate to approve an 80-90 per cent range and to upset the 8-7 vote by which his committee approved a continuance of present rigid support of basic crop prices at 90 per cent of parity.

President Eisenhower had asked a 75-90 per cent range. The House voted to let the limits extend from 82½ to 90 per cent.

Sen. Young (R-ND), a strong supporter of rigid supports, led off the debate with a protest against what he called "a completely erroneous statement" put on the desk of each senator.

This was an illustrated statement by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, first issued June 8, which high levels actually produced only a small percentage of all farm cash receipts nationwide.

The Benson statement said that meat animals, poultry, eggs, fruits and a long list of other farm products that were not under supports produced the bulk of farm income.

Young said he will "deal rather harshly" with this later and also will show that consumers got little if any benefits from recent farm price declines.

Will Oppose Regimentation, Foundations Reply

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—A sharp warning against congressional attempts to regulate or control educational organizations was made public today by the Rockefeller Foundation and the General Education Board.

The warning was contained in a joint reply to charges made at public hearings that were started on May 10 by the House of Representatives' special committee to investigate tax-exempt foundations.

The committee, which frequently was split by dissention, ended the public hearings abruptly on July 2 after 11 witnesses had testified against the foundations and only one was heard in their defense. Interested organizations were invited to file sworn statements setting forth their position.

Some of the charges heard by the committee centered on allegations that the foundations had been influenced by Communist ideas. This was flatly denied in the joint reply to the committee.

The reply by the foundation and the board was signed by Dean Rusk, president of both organizations. It consisted of a 75-page statement and two supplementary reports totaling 32 pages. The three documents, sworn by Rusk, were said to have been delivered Tuesday to the House committee in Washington.

In the reply, which was addressed to Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R.-Tenn.), who is chairman of the committee, Rusk (whose family lives in Atlanta) gave notice that his organizations would fight any attempts by government to use taxation as a means of curbing intellectual freedom. He said:

"We believe that a free society grows in strength and in moral and intellectual capacity on the basis of free and responsible research and scholarship. We shall continue to support vigorously this concept which lies at the heart of free institutions and we will oppose any effort by government to use the tax exempt status to accomplish indirectly what could not be done directly under the Constitution.

"We respect the heavy responsibility which rests upon the Congress for carrying out the onerous tasks placed upon it under the Constitution, but we submit that there are wide areas in the life of our people which were not intended to be subject to congressional regulation and control. We have welcomed the statements of the chairman and other members of the committee which indicate that this important principle is receiving the committee's attention."

Noting that "the curricula of our schools are in the hands of tens of thousands of agencies which are independent in curriculum matters," Rusk observed:

"The great strength of our educational system is its variety of patterns and its decentralization of control. We believe that it is not for government, nor for foundations, nor for any other group, to attempt to impose conformity upon this variety.

"If anyone has the impression that the foundations have the power to do so, he is wrong as a matter of fact. If anyone has the impression that our particular foundations have exerted pressure to produce such uniformity, he is equally wrong."

Rusk referred to the charges against the foundations as an "extraordinary catalogue of offenses, ranging from aiding and defending Communist practices in the schools to violation of the anti-trust laws." Asserting that "it is hard to believe that the committee has taken (them) seriously," he went on to say:

"We affirm unequivocally the integrity, patriotism, sense of responsibility and devotion to the public interest of all those, whether trustees or officers, who have over the past half century made the decisions which carried out the trusts laid upon the Rockefeller Foundation and the General Education Board. There is no trace of Communist infiltration into either of these foundations."

Talmadge Is Not Supporting Griffin

Gubernatorial Candidate Fred Hand Wednesday said this of one of the many cross-currents and confusions deliberately and shrewdly injected into the race for the purpose of deceiving the people:

"You have been told by candidate (Marvin) Griffin that he has the support of Gov. Herman Talmadge. That is not true.

"Gov. Talmadge is not backing anyone in this campaign and he has personally told me he is not . . . and I believe him because Herman Talmadge is a man of honor who keeps his word."

It is almost inconceivable that any other situation could exist—although it is obvious why Mr. Griffin earnestly would wish the contrary. Mr. Griffin was never anything but a Talmadge coattail rider. Before that he rode Gov. Rivers' coattails and then Gov. Ellis Arnall's.

It was not so long ago that Mr. Griffin was saying, in a campaign speech, that what the state needed was more government of the Ellis Arnall type.

When Gov. Arnall lost his coattail, Mr. Griffin hopped on Gov. Talmadge's.

To be sure, there are many old lines of political affiliation crossed in the present campaign, but it is difficult to understand how Gov. Talmadge can be other than neutral. Certainly it would require a great degree of ingratitude for him to oppose Fred Hand.

So, we may again assume that he has indeed given his word of honor that he is not supporting any candidate.

Now that this is settled—let's get on with the campaign. Georgia is to select a governor.

Will she select the man with the best record of business and political experience—a man of total and unquestioned integrity—or go off like sheep after those who promise pie in the sky—with maybe whipped cream on it?

Charles Gowen Brings A Sea Breeze Inland

If Georgia had a College of Heralds to figure out coats of arms for the leading candidates for the governorship, the meat ax and the bludgeon would predominate in more than one case.

Of course, in some instances, the heralds might insert a bucket of bubbling asphalt, a stack of pardons, and the decapitated body of former State Revenue Commissioner Glenn Phillips, just for spice and variety.

By and large though, the theme would be the ax and the bludgeon, for, regardless of their other virtues, few of this year's candidates are blessed with imagination and subtlety.

One of the exceptions is Charles Gowen of St. Simons Island, who gets a little coastal salt into his speeches. This week his topic is "Professor Rivers' School for Politics." As an orator and wit, Mr. Gowen is no Adlai Stevenson, but, compared with some of his opponents, he's Swift, Defoe, Gilbert and Sullivan and Ring Lardner rolled into one.

The political winds now are blowing hot and sultry. Mr. Gowen hardly is kicking up a searing blast. What he's manufacturing is more of a St. Simons summer breeze; light, cool and always refreshing.

Ike Again Demonstrates Decent Human Reaction

With "reddened face and clenched fist," Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower struck back yesterday in his press conference at the contemptible letter sent Sen. Joe McCarthy by the one-time hack, Secretary of War Harry Woodring, in which Gen. George Marshall was subjected to gutter-like criticism.

The President said frankly he was emotionally aroused by the McCarthy-Woodring letter.

"I would like to say," he said, "and I have been saying ever since I first knew him well, that he, to me, has typified all that we call or all that we look for in an American patriot. I saw many things that he did that were proof to me of his selflessness. . . . If you go back through his record, you will find that it was a brilliant record . . .

"I think it is a sorry reward, at the end of at least 50 years of service to this country to say that he is not a loyal, fine American and that he served only in order to advance his own personal ambitions.

"I can't imagine anyone that I have known in my career of whom this is less so than it is in his case."

By his tactics, Sen. McCarthy has made the smear the chief weapon in American public life.

Today those who advocate making a city water supply more healthful through fluoridation are accused of being in on a Communist plot. Those who join any organization designed to promote the general welfare are accused of being left-wing do-gooders.

A religious resolution urging the carrying out of the Christian commandment about the brotherhood of man becomes a Communist plot.

The nation suffers from the cancer of McCarthyism and the President has done well to speak of this latest smear with reddened face and clenched fist.

We applaud him for it—as we long have applauded Gen. Marshall as one of the great Americans of our time—and one to whom the nation owes a great and lasting debt.

Dairy Industry Needs A Little Promotion

The American people per capita are consuming more than 60 pounds less dairy products now than they were 10 years ago, the Department of Agriculture reports. Basically that is the reason for the continued illness of the industry.

While consumption per capita has declined from 752 pounds to 689, average production per cow has increased from 4,600 to 5,400 pounds. The increased production has more than outpaced the increase in population while consumption has declined steadily.

Higher prices, of course, have caused part of the decline in consumption. But the industry itself has done little to stop it. Promotion and marketing methods have lagged behind while substitute products have resorted to all the tricks of modern merchandising.

Add 10 pounds per year to per capita consumption of dairy products and the current stagnation in the industry would disappear along with the surpluses.

Carolina Motorists Look To Lower Insurance Cost

Both the Carolinas have done remarkably well in the last few months in cutting down the highway traffic toll.

In North Carolina among other beneficial results has been a sharp decrease in damage claims against auto insurance companies. Policyholders eagerly await their dividend in the form of lower premium rates.

The chances are they will have to wait awhile, at least until the insurance companies are sure the highway accident trend is so decisively downward as to appear permanent.

Generally, in the first six months there has been a slight drop in the number of killed and maimed on the nation's streets and highways. So far the difference is nothing about which to brag.

Of course, saving lives is the primary objective of a safety campaign. But man is a callous kind of creature, more likely to note a reduction in the cost of his auto insurance than the statistics of murder on the roads.

If he can be made to see that driving more carefully will actually save him money, then by all means let the appeal be made through his pocketbook.

Morgan County Farmers Blame Fox for Rabies

Up until the end of July not a single case of rabies in dogs had been reported in Morgan County. Yet within the month several head of cattle contracted the disease and died. Losses for the year have mounted to more than 50 head.

Farmers of the county lay the blame on foxes. In a special meeting recently, they decided on a fox extermination drive through the use of poison, with each farmer advertising and posting the area in which the poison bait was to be placed.

News of that action is not going to please friends of the fox. Neither are the farmers and dairymen of Morgan County pleased by the inroads of rabies on their herds.

And according to the best evidence available the fox is the culprit. He's the one that must be made to pay.

Every Paper Entitled To Right of Choice

Griffin's blast about Atlanta newspapers comes as a perfect example of Aesop's sour grapes. This is realized even by his most fervent supporters, because there is not a man in the race who would not welcome gleefully the support of The Journal and Constitution.

The fact they prefer another is, to a country-style prophet, nothing more than a case of every man to his pleasure. Their endorsement of Hand, though most emphatically not seconded by this publication, is a choice which could very well be made by a publication founded the same day the State of Georgia was, one which was never edited nor owned by anyone not a native Georgian.

This is only one more case in which it is not our pleasure to follow their reasoning, but we must continue to respect their right of choice, same as we expect them to respect ours.

U.S. Farm Exports to Switzerland Face Cut Because of Tariff Hike on Swiss Watches

Macon—This is in reference to Ralph McGill's column of August 2, "Swiss Watches Get the Works." That's not all that gets the works!

Georgia farmers should consider the Ike move a stab in the back. Under the Swiss trade agreement of 1936, American exports to Switzerland have been running about $200,000,000 per year, almost ¼-billion dollars. This is largely American farm products tobacco, cotton, lard, wheat, livestock. The greater part of this market will now no doubt be lost.

American agriculture must normally export production from 52,000,000 acres—one out of each 10. American agriculture is currently exporting products from approximately 30,000,000 acres due to recent loss of foreign markets. The farmer is taking the difference out of production. Sixteen million acres out of wheat, several million acres out of cotton, etc.

Further destruction of the farmers' foreign markets can only mean more acres out of production and subsequent lowering of the farmer's income.

In reference to Ike's tariff increase to prevent "serious injury" to the American watch-making industry, this is the record: For the 40 weeks ending October 1953, the Elgin Watch Company had net earnings before taxes of $3,445,000—78 per cent greater than net earnings before taxes for the same period the previous year. The Hamilton Watch Company during the nine-month period ending in September 1953, earned a net before taxes of $2,470,000.

Contrary to the President's impression that the American watch industry is sick, puny, and on the verge of bankruptcy, the industry is thriving and celebrated its biggest financial year, 1953, all four jeweled watch companies.

The committee for a national trade-policy recommended against the tariff increase, the President's own Commission on Foreign Economic Policy (Randall Commission) recommended against the increase. The American Farm Bureau Federation was opposed to the increase. Even the Tariff Commission's report did not render a unanimous recommendation (4 to 2).

Where is the President's trade policy mentioned in his message to Congress on March 30, 1954? Such action by the President following a 29% net profit on the part of the watch companies in 1953 could not be of real help to watchworkers, but only sabotage for the farmers.

Director of Information

He Hopes America Has Correct Policy

Atlanta—Grant, Master, that our assumptions may be right lest we squander our strength and shatter our lance upon harmless droves of oriental windmills.

That Asia shall never come to mean to America that which Fort Sumter came to mean to the South. South.

Korea tarnished our shield, and crippled the pride of America's armed forces. Half conceived, and half concluded wars are no challenge to the American concept of doing things right or not at all.

Besides, the national debt, today, is a greater threat to the free world than the Communist ideology.

Hand Is Winning Voters By Businesslike Campaign

In The Pelham Journal

I have always enjoyed a gubernatorial campaign. This time it is too close to us to enjoy it to the fullest. I like to express myself, but since Speaker Hand is one of the major candidates for governor, everyone knows full well I am for Fred and an expression of my views would only be a reiteration of what the great majority of our readers already know about our candidate.

Our candidate is Fred Hand, and he is conducting his campaign exactly as he does his business transactions—slow and deliberate, honest to the 'nth degree with no guess work or foolish statements. He's sure he's right before he acts.

Fred's refusal to open his campaign with a slam-bang was not according to our idea of good campaigning. We wanted to see and hear Fred wade waist deep in a polluted political river and start baptizing his opponents with fire and brimstone. We wanted to hear him shout and snort like a donkey on a hillside. We wanted to hear him say: "Sheriff, how many people would you say are here? The sheriff says 10,000. I don't know but as far as I can see my friends are standing."

I wanted him to get out The Statesman of the past and use the late Governor Gene's words, "When I'm your Governor, Georgia will blossom and bloom like a rose."

Speaker Hand won't holler, tousle his hair, unbutton his shirt collar and work himself into a frenzy, but he is quietly going about the state, speaking in a gentle voice, pointing to some mighty shady spots in the records of his opponents and he declares what has been, would be again with an opportunity. He is anointing his opponents with some awful truths that are penetrating every dark corner of the past, and the people's eyes are being opened and made to see the trickery and scheming of ruthless politicians.

No, Fred wouldn't run his campaign like we wanted him to, and now we are beginning to see the wisdom in his way of thinking. During Speaker Hand's many years in public life his opponents can't find enough mud to smear him—that's why Fred will win.

People as a whole prefer clean wholesome government. They're finding out that Fred Hand is the man who will give them that kind of government.

He is honest and has no strings tied to him by any pressure group who can pull a string and make him dance to their music. That's the way Fred has been reared and has lived. If he could be assured of his election by aligning himself with a Phenix City situation or any other degrading condition, Fred would remain on the cleaner side of the river every time.

If Fred Hand's honor and integrity were as well known all over Georgia as in Mitchell County, he would be elected by the largest majority of any governor in the history of the state. Fred Hand will not stoop to conquer, or even win a point. People are rapidly discovering this fine trait in him. In our opinion he will be elected.

RIDDLE: What's the difference between an archaeologist and a newspaper reporter? Answer: The archaeologist digs up the dirt on the dead; the reporter digs it up on the living.

REFUELING: W. L. Cleveland, employe of a cylinder gas company, reports that while delivering a tank of medical oxygen to a customer he had to pass the headquarters of a candidate for governor. He heard a passerby remark: "Guess they need a lot of gas to keep that bunch running."—Frank Rossiter in The Savannah Morning News.

HIGHLINES: It was different in the old days. A man acquired a suntan by plowing a mule.—Carey Williams in the Herald-Journal, Greensboro.

The boys who promote motorcades to hear their favorite candidates are not being provided with sufficient gasoline money to make the deal attractive.—Bob Majors in The News Record, Fort Gaines.

When a person is inclined to rest on his laurels, he is liable to find it is poison ivy.—John T. Dennis in The Elberton Star.

We keep asking questions to get a clear picture of how the governor's race is going, but we can't get a clue strong enough to make anyone bet a postage stamp on the outcome.—Cooper Ethridge in The Houston Home Journal.

Ol' Mule Was Using His 'Won't' Power

Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Many people die with their music still in them." To some extent that is true of all of us. We have the abilities to do many things that we never actually do. Emerson said, "You never know what you can do until you try." And right at this point we need the power of religious faith. Under the inspiration of Christ we accomplish things we never before dared try to do.

When Jesus met in church that day a man with a withered hand, first he told him to "Stand forth." He wanted the man's full attention. Then Christ said, "Stretch forth thine hand." (Mark 3:1-5)

But the man was incapable of action by himself. Many times he had wanted to use that hand but he couldn't. His will power was not strong enough to overcome the weakness of his body. So often we make resolutions but we fail to keep them. We fail because there is an opposing force within us that overcomes our will.

An old colored man was trying to get a balky mule to move but without success. Somebody said, "Uncle, why don't you try your will power on that mule?" He replied, 'I done tried it but it don't do no good. He's using his won't power."

Within each of us there is both a will power and a won't power. We have high desires but at the same time we tell ourselves that it's no use to try. We say, "I will," but our minds shout back at us, "You can't—you won't." "Won't power" is simply will power in reverse, and it is easier for most of us to drift backwards than to push forward. So, in our own strength, we fail.

We remind ourselves of Moses. As a young man he bitterly resented the fact that his people were in slavery. In anger one day he even killed one of the Egyptians. No doubt he felt he must do something to free his people but then he realized the hopelessness of the task. He thought about freedom but his hand was withered—incapable of action.

He went off into the country and day after day as he watched over the sheep he had time to think, but think is all he did. Probably some day he intended to do something but the time slipped by. The weeks went into months and finally forty years had gone by. Then God decided He would take a hand.

First, he got Moses' attention. To get it He set a bush on fire, but never let it burn up. God may do many things to get our attention. Sometimes He may even put us on our backs to give us a chance to look up.

With Moses' attention, then God spoke telling him to go lead his people out. But Moses made excuses. God said, "I'll give you the power." And with the help of God, Moses became mightier than Pharoah's army, and stronger even than the Red Sea.

Cold War Picture Brightens a Little

WASHINGTON—It's not all bad news on the cold war fronts. To the contrary, the last few days have brought a series of events which add to the strength and security of the free world at three points. The events are these:

1. The long, haggling, divisive Anglo-Egyptian controversy over the Suez has been conclusively and constructively settled.

2. Progress in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute has now reached a point where full agreement can be expected shortly. Here is another bitter controversy which, since 1951, has nearly thrust Iran into the bear-hug of the Soviet Union.

3. Finally, the reports from Belgrade and Rome are newly encouraging and a compromise of the explosive dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia over Trieste seems definitely in the making.

Each of these unhappy disputes cut a deep hole in the political and defensive armor of the free world. The settlement of one of them would bring visible relief. The settlement of all three, almost simultaneously, is a source of new strength and partnership at a time when it is most needed.

NATO has been absolutely helpless to proceed with its plans for the defense of the Mediterranean as long as London and Cairo have been locked in a lacerating dispute over the Suez. That barrier has now been magnificently lifted.

Egypt agrees that British troops may return in the event of an attack upon any Arab state or upon Turkey and there is provision for consultation in the face of threatened attack.

A sovereign and independent Egypt now has its fate in its own hands and the West has been true to itself bringing this about by negotiation.

For three years Iran's rich oil wells have been unproductive because her method of nationalization of the oil properties seemed unfair to the British operators.

But patient and generous negotiations have prevailed and today the Iranian leaders have achieved the substance of their desires with the result that Iranian oil will soon be flowing again and Iranian resistance to Communist coercion is bolder and stiffer than ever.

Moscow was so fearful that the Anglo-Iranian negotiations would be successful that it warned Teheran last week that Iran must not enter any Western-sponsored defense pact. The Iranian government was not impressed by the Soviet arguments or intimidated by the Soviet threats. It replied that it would join any regional defense treaty which bolstered its own security. Iran is choosing freedom.

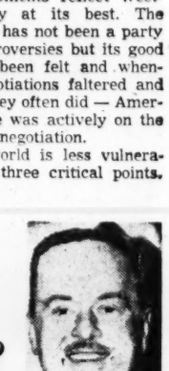
The evidence now is that settlement of the Trieste dispute is in the making. This will make Yugoslavia a better ally in the fight against Soviet expansion and it will make it easier for Italy to go forward with the European Defense Community treaty, France willing.

These settlements reflect Western diplomacy at its best. The United States has not been a party to these controversies but its good offices have been felt and whenever the negotiations faltered and faded — as they often did — American influence was actively on the side of more negotiation.

The free world is less vulnerable today at three critical points.

Frederick C. Othman

Man With Million Deemed a Failure?



WASHINGTON—How miserable is a failure when it makes a million dollars? With us taxpayers holding the bag, of course!

"I am amazed," said Sen. Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) when he heard the tale of Franklin Trice of Richmond, Va., a magnificent failure, indeed, in the apartment-house building business.

In 1948 Trice bought from the U.S. government for $61,790 a tract of 258 acres not far from the Navy Yard at Norfolk, Va. He took 54 acres of this, which cost him a little better than $13,000, and built an apartment house on them.

His fee for doing the building was $129,000. Total cost, including this fee, was $2,925,000, but Trice got an FHA mortgage for $3,889,400. After all, the value of the land alone, according to his mortgage application, was $349,200.

So the apartments were finished. And there was Trice with his building fee, plus $970,000 in windfall profits.

The project, unfortunately, was a failure.

In August of 1950 Trice told the Atlantic Insurance Co., which held the mortgage, that he had so few tenants his income wasn't big enough to keep up the payments. And could these be deferred?

In December of the same year Trice paid the stockholders, mostly himself and members of his family, $522,000.

The way Sen. Capehart figured it, there still was around half a million dollars in the Trice bank accounts. "You tell the FHA this?" demanded the senator.

Trice said he had not. The regulations didn't say he should. "I told 'em the apartments weren't rented," said Trice. "They were not."

"You had the money in the bank," Sen. Capehart insisted. "Why didn't you use it on the mortgage?"

"Maybe I didn't want to spend it that way," replied the tall, pink-faced Trice. "I'm being honest about it."

So, said Trice, in January of last year, he got tired of struggling with his nearly empty apartments. He went into default and pretty soon his project was up at public auction.

"Let's see if I've got this straight," said the nonplussed Senator. "The total mortgage was nearly $1,000,000 above the cost. Your building fee was $129,000. You distributed $522,000. And when it was all over, you gave the project back to the FHA and walked out."

"Oh, no, sir," replied Trice. "I lost that property because I decided I didn't want to wrestle with it any longer."

And now, said the Senator, the taxpayers stand to lose at least $2,000,000.

Not if they get some tenants, said Trice. I don't know what you other taxpayers think about this. Myself, I feel like a sucker. And not self-made.

ferred to his two opponents only as "the presiding officers of the House and Senate."

He said the size of crowds hearing him speak assures him of victory without a runover in the primary.

Speaking in Aragon and Rockmart after a handshaking tour in Lindale, candidate Charlie Gowen charged his opponents are supported by anti-labor interests and claimed to be the only candidate in the race who is a friend to labor. Gowen's attacks were leveled at Hand, Thomspon, Griffin and Tom Linder.

Griffin, in a fiery address at Cochran, waved a copy of The Atlanta Daily World, Negro newspaper, which he said contained an editorial endorsing Thompson.

"This Negro paper has demanded that I quit the race for governor," he said. "Can Georgians trust the preservation of segregation in our state to a man who seeks and gets active backing of Negro agitators?"

"DESERVES TRUST"

Griffin said he is the only candidate to be trusted with the preservation of segregation in public schools. He also emphasized the race issue in a talk at Blakely.

Griffin picked up the support of another Georgia newspaper, The Greensboro Herald-Journal, and the endorsement of two more veterans' leaders.

Robert Burch, Clarkesville, immediate past commander of the American Legion, Ninth District, and Gene Brown, Alma, immediate past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Fourth District, said they would support the lieutenant governor.

Agriculture Commissioner Tom Linder was working in his office at the State Capitol Wednesday.

Thursday he addresses the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce at noon and will speak in Ringgold at 8 p. m.

Mother of Twin Girls Kills Self as Police Raid Party

Special to The Constitution

JONESBORO, Aug. 4—A 32-year-old mother of twins early Wednesday grabbed up a revolver and fatally wounded herself after being arrested on a morals charge, Clayton County police said.

Officers and the estranged husband atempted in vain to slap the .22-caliber target pistol from the hand of Mrs. Barbara Walker Gibson, of 4106 Atlanta Ave., near Hapeville.

Asst. Police Chief Ed Camp and Patrolman Frank S. Shockley said they entered the home after Thomas Edward Gibson, Husband of the dead woman, obtained a search warrant and complained that an "all-night" party was in progress there.

Officers said they arrested Mrs. Gibson, two soldiers and a second woman and were preparing to escort the four to the Clayton County Jail on morals charges.

Before anyone could intervene, officers said, Mrs. Gibson picked up the .22-caliber target pistol, pressed it to her temple and fired.

Pension Boosts For Vets Win In House Vote

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The House approved by voice vote and sent to the Senate today a bill to increase by five per cent the rates of pensions payable to veterans and their dependents.

The Veterans Administration has estimated first-year cost of the measure at $35,958,000. It would give increases to about 544,700 veterans and 399,100 dependents of deceased veterans.

The increase for each veteran or dependent would be about $2 to $3.

The House action today followed recent approval of another bill to increase veterans' compensation payments by an estimated $110,000,000 a year.

Gets 5-15 Years In Child Cases

Stone Mountain Circuit Judge Frank Guess has sentenced Gerard C. Worth of 477 Eleanor St., SE, to 5 to 15 years in prison following his plea of guilty to two charges of child molestation.

Worth, a printer with The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, was indicted by the DeKalb Grand Jury last week on one count involving a three-year-old girl and another involving a six-year-old boy. Worth pleaded guilty to both counts.

GEORGIA ROUNDUP

Extension Service Adds 8 Men to State Staff

Eight men have been added to the staff of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, according to an announcement by W. A. Sutton, associate director.

Their names and the positions they took over on July 1 are:

W. Harold Gurley and John Preston, assistant agronomists; Jack Palmer and Thaxton, poultrymen; John Noland, assistant state 4-H Club leader; Cecil Blackwell, assistant horticulturist; Charles O'Kelley, associate economist, and C. E. Johnson Jr., district agent.

Seven of the new appointees are graduates of the University of Georgia. Blackwell attended Mississippi State College and the University of Maryland.

Gurley has served as county agent in Whitfield County, assistant county agent in Hall County and as a veterans' instructor in Blue Ridge.

Noland replaced L. R. Dunson, who became associate state 4-H Club leader when R. J. Richardson was named state 4-H Club leader.

Palmer, who will receive his M.S. degree in poultry husbandry at the University of Georgia this year, is a graduate of the School of Veterinary Medicine at the University. Thaxton for the past six years has been South Carolina Extension Service turkey specialist.

Blackwell comes to the Georgia Extension Service from the University of Arkansas where he taught and did research work.

O'Kelley took the position formerly held by J. W. Fanning, who has been named associate director of Continuing Education at the University.

Johnson, former county agent in Worth County and former assistant county agent in Spalding County, was named district agent for south central Georgia.

Leaf Prices Boosted

Increased demand boosted prices slightly in the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco belt Wednesday despite continued low volume and a higher percentage of low quality offerings. Increases in grade averages were usually $1 or $2 per hundred pounds compared with the previous day. Tuesday the markets grossed 8,055,078 pounds at an average of $49.09 per hundred. This average was the lowest of the year and 85 cents under that of Monday. Season's sales were brought to 119,170,913 for a $51.17 average. . . . Dr. W. H. Tanner was re-elected president of the Coweta-Fayette Electric Membership Corp. at its annual meeting Wednesday.

Guardsmen Honored

Three Georgia National Guardsmen at summer maneuvers of the 108th AAA Brigade at Camp Stewart have received high honors. Chaplain Capt. Herman Ihley, Methodist minister from Elberton and chaplain of the 950th AAA Battalion, received the Distinctive Service Medal, which is the state's highest award. Capt. Glenn Hawkins, commanding officer of Battery B, 950th AAA Battalion, Monroe, won the 1954 Governor's Trophy. Pfc. Jack Poole of Waynesboro's Battery D, 101st AAA Gun Bn., won a competitive entrance examination for the United States Military Academy. . . . Savoy White of Montrose won the Department of Public Safety's camp award at the Lake Blackshear Camp as camper of the week.

Board Nulls Raises, Gives Red Oak Fire District

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Fulton's Board of County Commissioners Wednesday rescinded its July action voting pay raises to two county employes over the recommendation of the county Civil Service Board, established a Red Oak fire district, and set up a committee to study hospital needs in south Fulton County.

Acting on a request from the Civil Service Board, the commissioners sent back to the board for further study a request for meritorious pay increases to two Fulton Civil Court employes, Thomas A. Poole, deputy marshal, and William Honea, chief deputy.

The commission voted at its July meeting to grant meritorious pay increases to Poole and Honea, overriding a previous ruling by the civil service group. The board earlier this week passed a resolution pointing out the commission's action was against civil service rules and asked it to rescind the action.

RESIDENCE REGULATIONS

In another move involving the Civil Service Board, the commissioners asked the board to review its residence regulations under which county employes are required to live in Fulton County.

The commissioners said exceptions should be made for county employes who, while living outside Fulton, were transferred to county employ under the Plan of Improvement. The Civil Service Board has held in the past that such employes, when they change residence, should move into Fulton County.

The commission passed two resolutions establishing a fire district in Red Oak and approving creation of a $250 guaranty fund by Red Oak citizens to contract with College Park for fire protection. Under the plan, College Park will make fire calls on a charge of $50 per call. The fund does not involve expenditure of county revenue.

DISTRICT LIMITS

Limits of the fire district are to extend from the College Park limits to the Fayette County line, Flat Shoal Road to Union City limits, Stonewall Tell Road to Tell, Butner Road to Atlanta limits, along the Atlanta limit line to East Point limits and back to College Park limits.

In establishing the committee to study hospital needs in south Fulton, the commission voted down a resolution offered by Commissioner Jim Aldredge calling for establishing emergency clinics in the north and south ends of the county. The clinics were to be operated by the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority.

A second portion of the resolution called for formulating plans to establish hospitals of sufficient size to serve these sections. Commissioner I. Gloer Hailey opposed the resolution, saying it would tear down groundwork laid by the South Fulton Cities Hospital Authority to build a south Fulton hospital.

GOES TO COMMITTEE

The commission approved a motion by Commissioner R. L. (Shorty) Doyal to refer the matter for study to a committee composed of Commission Chairman Archie Lindsey, the Rev. John Summer, executive secretary of the south Fulton group, County Manager A. E. Fuller, the chairman of the Fulton-DeKalb Authority, the commission clerk, and a representative of the county legal department.

Moving to eliminate controversy over the closing of the Botanical Gardens Lake to the public for swimming because of water pollution, the commission directed county health engineers to survey possibilities of draining the lake.

In other actions the commission authorized advertising for bids from persons who would be interested in leasing a $28,000 hangar proposed for construction at the Fulton County Airport and granted a $10,000 additional appropriation to the Fulton County Centennial Committee.

Commissioners Use Meeting as Campaign Stump

Three Fulton County commissioners seeking offices in the Sept. 8 primary took advantage of Wednesday's commission meeting to plug their campaigns.

Commissioner R. L. (Shorty) Doyal, seeking the state Senate post held by G. Everett Millican, obviously hit at Sen. Millican when he said the commission is restricted because of "some asinine legislation" passed in recent years by the Legislature. Addressing a large audience in the commission chambers, he said: "You'll have to correct this Sept. 8."

Commissioners I. Gloer Hailey and Jim Aldredge, who, along with two other candidates, are vying for the commission's top position, carried on a running word duel. When nominations were opened for posts on the county forestry commission, Aldredge nominated Hailey "so he'll have a job after Sept. 8." Hailey replied he'd be too busy being county commissioner."

Gowen Sticks To Guns on Health Rates

Gubernatorial candidate Charlie Gowen Wednesday refused to retract a charge that health and hospitalization insurance rates in Georgia are too high.

The Georgia Association of Health and Accident Underwriters passed a resolution Tuesday asking Gowen to take back "his generalized indictment of the insurance industry," made in an address in Lyons July 25.

Instead the legislator went on the stump repeating that rates are too high.

Gowen said in Lyons that "health and hospitalization rates can be reduced in Georgia, and the state should require insurance companies to live up to their policy agreements."

Wednesday he repeated that rates are higher in Georgia than in other parts of the country and said companies should not be permitted to cancel policies after they once are in force.

He told audiences in Rockmart and Aragon that if he is elected governor he would move to get lower rates and to put a non-cancellation provision in the policies.

HEADING FOR AKRON

City's Soap Box Champion Eyes '65 Indianapolis '500'

A 15-year-old East Point youth will have one eye cocked toward the 1965 Indianapolis Speedway "500" when he competes in the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio, Aug. 15.

Jerry Putnam, Atlanta's Soap Box Derby champion, confides that his big thrill would be to compete in the "world series of auto racing."

However, Jerry is plenty excited over the coming derby in Akron and is "looking forward to winning."

"Everyone tells me I have a good chance of winning and that's what I'm going all out to do," the Atlanta champion said. "I sure would like to have one of those scholarships," he added.

A college scholarhip valued at $5,000 will be awarded the winner, with scholarships of $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 going to the next three finishers.

Jerry, who will leave for Akron by auto Tuesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Putnam, 635 Westwood Ave., and a friend, Bobby Huff, confesses he has always liked to build—particularly soap box vehicles.

Inspection of the soap box racers and time trials will be held Aug. 13, with the championship event two days later.

The East Point youth, whose racer already has been shipped to Akron, will take part in the colorful parade of champions before the big event on Derby Day.

The Atlanta champion has only one helper—his mother. "She's my pit man," laughed Jerry, "because I always holler for her to help me get the racer inside when it rains."

Stabbed to Death In Dressing Room

A Negro man was stabbed to death Wednesday during an argument that flared in a dressing room of a fertilizer plant at 1541 Marietta Rd., NW, and police were looking for a fellow employe in connection with the incident.

The dead man was listed as Levi Tutman Jr., of 3240 Northside Dr., NW.

Wheat Williams Names McDow Campaign Chief

Wheat Williams, candidate for DeKalb County commissioner, Wednesday announced the appointment of Joseph U. McDow, Decatur attorney, as his campaign manager.

McDow, who has law offices in Decatur and Atlanta, is a member of the Atlanta, Georgia and American Bar Assn. He is a graduate of the Woodrow Wilson College of Law and attended Howard College in Birmingham and Emory University.

The attorney will co-ordinate Williams' campaign activities from his headquarters at 201 Watkins Bldg. on Court Square in Decatur.

Barrett Says Sinkwich Has Voted in State

W. K. (Billy) Barrett Wednesday branded as "ridiculous" charges leveled at him and his campaign manager, Frank Sinkwich, Tuesday by another candidates for lieutenant governor, Ernest Vandiver.

"This proves the charges that I have made all along that Roy Harris has been controlling the general assembly for over 20 years and now this discredited politician is running Gen. Vandiver's campaign," Barrett said.

Barrett said also that he would make no apologies for his stand with the legislature on the state ambulance bill. "Scores of Georgia boys died because of the Roy Harris legislative lobby bloc, which held up that ambulance bill for almost three years," Barrett charged.

Barrett said Sinkwich has been a resident of Athens and a registered voter for over 13 years. This was in answer to Vandiver's statement that Sinkwich was from Ohio and did not vote here.

Sinkwich himself termed the statement "humorous, false and read like a page from the Augusta Courier."

Answer, Hand Urges Thompson

By JIM PINSON
Constitution Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—Fred Hand Wednesday challenged M. E. Thompson to answer his charges that the Thompson administration negotiated highway contracts and allowed liquor dealers to operate in dry counties.

In a slap at Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin, Hand also told a gathering at Hamilton that Gov. Talmadge has assured him "on numerous occasions" that he is not supporting any candidate in the gubernatorial race.

In a television appearance here Wednesday night, Hand charged Griffin signed his own pardon from a 20-day jail sentence in 1939 when he was executive secretary to Gov. Rivers.

Hand said Griffin was sentenced on a contempt of court charge after he physically ousted Highway Director Lint Miller from office on orders of Gov. Rivers. Miller had been threatened with removal and obtained a restraining order aganst Rivers and Griffin, Hand said.

Speaking before a friendly audience on the Harris County courthouse lawn, the Pelham businessman continued to lash out at both Thompson and Griffin, calling them "the simonized twins" of former Gov. Ed Rivers.

CALLAWAY HOME

Hamilton is the home of industrialist Cason Callaway, brother-in-law of the House speaker. Mrs. Callaway, who attended the rally and barbecue, said her husband could not be present because of illness.

Notables who were present included Earle Cocke Jr. of Dawson, who is supporting Hand. Cocke was once prominently mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate.

Hand drew applause at Hamilton when he called on Thompson to defend the record of his administration as acting governor.

REFUSAL CLAIMED

"Melvin says he is running a statesman-like campaign," Hand said. "He refuses to discuss his opponents. He likewise refuses to discus his record."

"I challenge him," Hand continued, "to explain why he permitted the sale of liquor in dry counties and the negotiation of highway contracts."

Hand also charged that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is supporting Thompson in a move to break down Georgia's public school segregation pattern.

"Melvin is their candidate now just like he was in 1948 and 1950," Hand maintained.

DEBUNKS CLAIMS

Debunking claims of the Griffin camp that the lieutenant governor is receiving the support of Talmadge, Hand declared.

"I've talked to Gov. Talmadge on numerous occasions. He has told me that he is keeping hands off and that he is not supporting anybody."

On the other hand the House speaker said he was proud of the support of the Atlanta newspapers, although he did not seek their backing.

"They're supporting me," he said, "because I am for the things they think are best for the progress of the State of Georgia."

Rounding out his most ambitious week of campaigning, Hand moves into Troup County Thursday for two addresses at LaGrange. He will speak at the Kiwanis Club at 12:30 p.m. and at a public rally at 5 p.m.

Hand is scheduled to speak at Bremen, Buchanan and Tallapoosa Friday.

2 Atlantans Rank High In Bridge League Play

Two Atlantans took high-ranking places Wednesday in the summer national tournament of the American Contract Bridge League now under way in Washington, D.C.

Champion Of Workers, Gowen Says

By M. L. ST. JOHN
Constitution Political Editor

ROCKMART, Aug. 4—Gubernatorial candidate Charlie Gowen Wednesday assailed four opponents as "enemies of the working people" and declared he, alone, is the "friend of the working man."

Mill employes in Aragon and Rockmart heard the candidate contrast his labor record with the records of M. E. Thompson, Marvin Griffin, Fred Hand and Tom Linder. Earlier, Gowen shook hands in Lindale, but postponed a talk there because of a mixup in plans.

A member of the House of Representatives for 16 years, Gowen said he always has opposed legislation which sought to "punish labor" and curtail "the right of the working people to organize and bargain collectively."

UNFAIR ADVANTAGE

On the other hand, Thompson, as acting governor, signed into law two bills designed to give capital an unfair advantage over labor, Gowen said. Even after labor leaders showed Thompson the dangers in the so-called "right-to-work" bill and the misnamed "anti-strike" bill, he signed them, Gowen asserted.

Yet in this election year, Thompson claims to be for labor, Gowen added. The legislator said he personally voted against both bills.

During his six years as presiding officer of the Senate, Lt. Gov. Griffin has made no contribution to the people who must "earn their bread by the sweat of their brow," Gowen declared.

Gowen recalled that he, as representative of Glynn County, had fought in vain in the last legislature to increase workmen's compensation benefits. He said he was opposed by Speaker Hand, who had the support of "people who are definitely anti-labor." These people, Gowen reported, are the Atlanta financiers and banks.

RAPS AT HARRIS

Gowen added that Hand's campaign manager, Roy Harris, has constantly opposed labor.

Griffin could have had workmen's compensation legislation introduced and passed if he had wanted to do so, Gowen said.

Yet, in this election year, Griffin holds himself out as labor's friend, Gowen said.

Commissioner of Agriculture Linder has campaigned against labor in the Market Bulletin for many years, the candidate said. "He is the first official I know of to take labor's tax money and use it to publish a paper fighting labor."

INCREASE RATE

Gowen said present workmen's compensation benefits of $24 a week are not sufficient for people injured on the job. He said Georgia should increase her rate to make it comparable with other Southern states.

Gowen will speak at Lyerly at 11 a.m. Thursday, Trion at 5 p.m. and Rossville at 7:30 p.m. On this swing through northwest Georgia he is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, Anne and "Bootie."

Griffin Says Two Rivals BuyingRace

By DERICK DANIELS
Constitution Staff Writer

COCHRAN, Aug. 4—Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin laid the lash on gubernatorial candidate M. E. Thompson and Fred Hand Wednesday, painting them as "millionaire opponents who are going to try to buy the election."

"And when they do," Griffin said, "you go up there an get some of that money, wash it off good, stick it down in your jeans and then go vote for Marvin Griffin."

As Griffin's entourage, playing hop-scotch across Georgia counties, skipped into middle Georgia again, the candidate injected more venom into attacks on his foes.

He put the race issue squarely before an all-white audience on the Bleckley County courthouse lawn. He said the Negroes, inspired by the NAACP, are rallying around Thompson. And he asked the crowd:

"Are we gonna be less smart than the Negroes?"

THOMPSON

Griffin claimed "M. E. couldn't be for segregation and have that NAACP crowd supporting him." He quoted the Atlanta Daily World, the Negro newspaper, as saying Thompson is the only candidate who has consistenly opposed "race-baiters" and who has a chance to win.

As for Hand, he said, "You can't trust a man who is under the thumb of Jim Cox." And he decried talk by Hand's supporters that the state needs a financial expert as governor "so the economy won't go to the dogs."

In his talk, Griffin made bids for three separate groups of voters—the very young, the very old and the farmers.

He introduced a group of college-aged boys traveling with him and referred to them as "the state's leaders of tomorrow." For the old folks he promised efforts to raise pensions in Georgia to $50 a month.

FARMERS

Addressing the farmers, the lieutenent governor said: "When I look at the burned-up rows of corn, I don't fear for the future because those who till the soil have the courage to tackle the job anew."

He promised the farmer an administration that would go "all out" in cooperative efforts to alleviate the plight of drought-stricken farmers.

As usual, Mr. Griffin threw brick-bats at the Atlanta newspapers. "Former Gov. Jim Cox of Ohio owns the biggest newspaper-radio-television monopoly in the South. Like Gen. William Sherman he came from Ohio; Georgia was able to rebuild after Sherman, but now we are attacked from within," he said.

"They are trying in Atlanta to fool the white folks of Georgia," he said.

BRING INDUSTRY

Griffin promised if he is elected to send out a Georgian "of great stature" to bring in industry from "the Yankees." Observers said he was referring to Gov. Talmadge, whose political disciples he has courted persistently.

He was applauded when he repeated his pledge to set up a rural roads authority to pave mail and school routes. "If you can show me a more important thing than paving rural roads," he said, "I'll quit the governor's race."

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, Aug. 4 (AP)—Blood transfusions ended today for Eddie Philips, 6, who bled for 12 days following a tonsilectomy. The youngster was given blood for 27 days following the operation.

The attending surgeon, while cautious, indicated today that Eddie has a fine chance to recover.

Thompson Cites Role On Schools

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Staff Writer

AUGUSTA, Aug. 4—Confidently predicting victory on Sept. 8, M. E. Thompson declared here Wednesday night that he is the gubernatorial candidate best qualified to maintain and adequately finance separate public schools for both races in Georgia.

Speaking over two Augusta television stations, Thompson said his training and experience as a school teacher and administrator, as revenue commissioner and as director of the state budget equip him best to handle the state's school and financial problems.

Those two problems, he said, are paramount issues in the race for the governorship.

Declaring that he is greatly encouraged by the size of the crowds at his rallies as compared to those in his unsuccessful 1950 campaign, Thompson flatly predicted that he will carry a majority of the counties in every congressional district in the state on Sept. 8 and win the governorship without a runover.

COMPENSATION LAW

Still refusing to engage in controversies with his opponents, Thompson came the nearest yet to attacking them when he told one TV audience that Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin and House Speaker Fred Hand helped kill legislation in the General Assembly that would have increased workmen's compensation benefits to Georgia laborers.

This remark came during a panel discussion on Thompson's proposals to encourage industrial developments in every county in the state. He referred to Hand and Griffin only as the presiding officers of the House and Senate.

Reiterating his promise to help municipalities by giving them tax refunds, Tompson added a new pledge—to help cities operate hospitals as well as to help pave streets.

William Lester, former Richmond County legislator, former chairman of the state tax revision committee and former deputy state revenue commissioner, introduced Thompson on both television programs.

OTHERS ON PROGRAM

Appearing with Thompson and Lester on one panel program were W. Edgar Raines and C. W. Woods, Augusta city councilmen; Frank Pierce, Richmond county attorney, and William Clelland, civic leader.

Thompson was met near the Columbia County line and escorted into Augusta by city and county leaders.

As he asked the voters in this area to send him back to the executive mansion for a full four year term as governor, Thompson pointed pridefully to his record as acting governor.

"During the 19 months I served as your acting governor," he said, "I paid the state out of debt although its income was only half what it is today.

"The record of highway construction under my administration has never been equalled," he declared. "I increased teachers' pay twice by 50 per cent and by 10 per cent. The pay of school bus drivers was increased, and we added $7,000,000 a year to the old age pensions. And I left a balance of $25,743,000 in the state treasury when I went out of office."

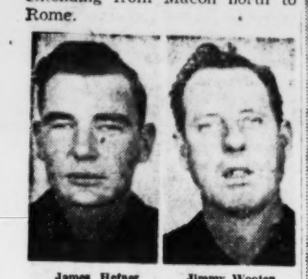
4 Men--2 Illiterate--Linked To 38 Safe Robberies

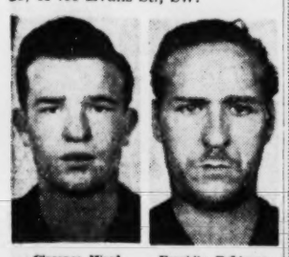
Four men—two of them unable to read or write—who rode in an expensive sedan have been linked to 38 safe roberries over Georgia in which the loot totaled many thousands of dollars, police said Wednesday.

Dets. S. E. Smith and J. O. Smith said 28 of the robberies occurred in Fulton County; three in Floyd County and the remaining seven were of rural post offices extending from Macon north to Rome.



James Hefner — Jimmy Wooten

The four, all held in the Floyd County jail at Rome, were listed as James Hefner, 24, of 496 Third St., NW; Jimmy Wooten, 45, of Rt. 1, Austell; Clarence Ward, 20, of an Echo street, NW, address, and Franklin D. Robinson, 28, of 750 Evans St., SW.



Clarence Ward — Franklin Robinson

Local charges against the four will be presented before the Fulton County grand jury next week, detectives said.

NARCOTICS

In addition to the safe robbery charges, Wooten and his wife, Mrs. Betty Wooten, are charged in Cobb County with possessing approximately $5,000 worth of narcotics which were found in a hollowed out loaf of bread at the Wooten home.

Atlanta detectives, who had worked for 68 consecutive hours on the case, said one of the group made a complete statement of their activities, signed the paper and then commented:

"That's the first time in my life I ever told the complete truth and I want you to know I feel bad about it."

SAFE UNLOCKED

In one safe robbery at 306 Hayden St., NW, detectives said the group battered open a heavy metal safe and found only company papers inside. They were unable to read a huge sign posted over the safe:

"This safe is not locked."

In another instance, detectives said, the group told of stopping at Rydal in north Georgia to put water in the car. They said one member noticed a safe in a building across the street from the service station and suggested: "Let's get it." Detectives said the four returned later and robbed the safe.

OVERTURNED CAR

The 1954 model Buick in which the four rode around was overturned at Menlo in Chattooga County two weeks ago when townspeople said they saw men attempting to break into a hardware store and opened fire with shotguns, pistols and rifles.

Attempting a getaway, the driver skidded into a ditch in the center of town and the car was overturned. Ward and Robinson were apprehended a short distance away.

Robinson is under indictment on burglary charges in Fulton, Gwinnett and Cobb counties, detectives said. They added Wooten was scheduled to go on trial Tuesday in Fulton Superior Court on a burglary charge and Ward is under bond to Fulton criminal court on a vagrancy charge.

Bible Class To Celebrate 23rd Anniversary

Members of the Capitolian Bible Class of the Capitol View Baptist Church will celebrate the 23rd anniversary of the class' founding Sunday.

John Ball, assistant city sanitary engineer, has been teacher for 20 consecutive years. L. C. Risner, class president, and others of the class have arranged special exercises beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the church.

A picnic luncheon will be served in Perkerson Park after regular church services.

Many members of the class also were members of the old John Ball Class of the Western Heights Baptist Church, and all members of the Ball class also have been invited.

"We expect at least 200 and are planning a big celebration," Ball said. "Scores of old members will be present to help us observe our birthday. The program will include special music and several prominent speakers."

DISTILLERY FIRE—PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 4—Fire early today destroyed two rackhouses and the customs house of the American Distilling Co. at Pekin, causing a loss of $4,000,000, ruining 42,000 barrels of whisky of 50 to 55 gallons each.

U.N. Offered Anti-Aggression Plan

By KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 4—The United States offered today specific principles for strengthening the United Nations to cope effectively with future aggressors. The plan was outlined to the Collective Measures Committee of the General Assembly.

James J. Wadsworth, U. N. spokesman, stressed the keen interest of his government. The suggestions, he told the committee, were "derived from the valuable lesson learned in Korea."

The United States paper advanced these principles:

1. When the U.N. undertakes action against aggression, the greatest possible number of states should make effective military contributions to the collective effort, in accordance with their individual capacities and resources.

2. A primary objective should be to obtain the maximum contribution of effective military forces.

3. States supporting U.N. collective measures should seek to maximize effective military contributions not only by their own contribution of forces but also by helping to provide logistic support to states desiring to participate but unable to provide for the equipment, training of or supplying of their own forces.

4. In the event of collective measures undertaken by the U.N. against aggression, states should endeavor to make available ancillary support for the benefit of forces of countries participating in such measures.

5. Collective self-defense and regional arrangements or agencies constitute an important part of the U.N. collective security system. When action is taken against aggression consistent with and in support of the charter by collective defense agencies, it is important that all appropriate steps be taken in the United Nations to provide support.

6. The importance of collective economic and financial measures against aggression for the purpose of assisting the victim and cooperating states is reaffirmed. The availability to the Security Council and the General Assembly of the arms embargo list and the list of strategic items is noted.

Army Depot Reported Closing in Baton Rouge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Rep. Morrison (D-La) said today he has been advised that the Army engineer depot in Baton Rouge, La., is to be closed.

No date has been set for the closing, Morrison said.

Morrison told a reporter he has urged the Air Force to take over the depot. He said he expects a decision within the next few days.

VFW Blasts U.S. Policy With Reds

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars blasted the present and past national administrations for "mild and ineffective" action against communism today and called on the government to outlaw the Communist party and all its affiliates.

The organization's stand on the Communist question was taken in the form of a proclamation read by its commander-in-chief, Wayne E. Richards, Arkansas City, Kan., at the VFW's 55th annual national encampment. It was endorsed by the delegates with an outburst of loud cheering and hand clapping.

The proclamation condemned the "mild and ineffective efforts taken by the present and past national administrations to dissolve this menace," and added the VFW has insisted for years that "there is but one means of dealing with conspirators. Criminals must be prosecuted."

"We demand legislation calling for outlawing of the Communist party and all its affiliates in this nation."

Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, told the VFW that pay increases and other benefits for the armed forces are needed to "attract and hold an adequate number of high-type career men and women."

Carney said "there is not sufficient pride in the military service, nor are the rewards of military service sufficient."

Mississippian Elected by Girls Nation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Jerolyn Ross, 17-year-old miss from Meridan, Miss., tonight was elected as president of Girls Nation, an auxiliary of The American Legion.

Jerolyn Ross

Miss Ross, the Nationalist Party candidate, won the election from Federalist candidate Ann Davis of Bountiful, Utah.

The Nationalist vice-presidential candidate was Claudia Liebrecht, also 17, of Manhasset, L.I., N.Y. Her opponent was Mary Louise Froebe of Charlotte, N.C.

The election wound up a two-day convention for 98 Girls Nation delegates at American University here. Mrs. Bertha Adkins, of the Republican National Committee, addressed the closing session.

The convention was patterned on National political conventions. An added feature was a visit with President Eisenhower in the White House rose garden.

Ike Says Marshall Stood For All That Means Patriot

Allied Expeditionary Force, was the latest in a series of episodes going back to 1951.

On June 14 of that year, McCarthy accused Gen. Marshall in a Senate speech of deliberately fostering governmental policies that enhanced Soviet objectives. He identified the general with "a conspiracy of infamy so black that, when it is finally exposed, its principals shall be forever deserving of the maledictions of all honest men."

McCarthy continued his attack in subsequent speeches and was joined by Sen. Jenner, (R-Ind). Jenner called Gen. Marshall a front man for traitors.

CHARGE BASIS

The McCarthy attack on Gen. Marshall, who went on to become secretary of state and later secretary of defense after his wartime service as Army chief of staff, is the basis of one of the specific charges in the pending Senate move to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

Eisenhower responded indirectly during the 1952 presidential campaign by praising Gen. Marshall as one of the United States' great patriots. He was widely criticized, however, for deleting such a passage from a speech at Milwaukee on Oct. 4 of that year.

At the time, it was reported that McCarthy, who shared the platform, had persuaded Eisenhower to make the deletion. Last month, Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin said it was he who had talked Eisenhower into omitting the passage. The aim, he explained, was to avoid an affront to McCarthy that might have split the Republican Party.

REPEATED PRAISE

The President repeated his praise of Gen. Marshall as recently as last Nov. 4, when asked to comment on Jenner's criticism.

Today, he pointed out that he had been saying since he first knew him well that Gen. Marshall typified the attributes of an American patriot.

He referred reporters to his book, "Crusade in Europe," published in 1948. It is studded with praise of Gen. Marshall.

Mr. Eisenhower in his news conference also:

1. Said this country is completely opposed to admitting Communist China to the United Nations now, but would not predict the situation five years hence. He said he always is ready to see whether the sinner repents and returns to the fold.

CRITICIZES CUT

2. Criticized as very unfortunate the $500,000,000 cut in foreign aid voted yesterday by the Senate. He suggested it showed lack of knowledge of how Russia is trying to thwart U.S. efforts to build up confidence among free nations.

3. Said one part of his atoms-for-peace plan will have to be abandoned because of unfavorable reaction from Moscow. But he refused to admit defeat on his whole atom-pooling program, saying he wants the world to know the possibilities of using the atom to raise living standards.

15 Pct. Rise Expected In State College Rolls

An over-all student increase of about 15 per cent is expected in Georgia colleges this fall, a survey showed Wednesday.

Colleges reported expected increases ranging from two to as much as 35 per cent, seen at West Georgia College in Carrollton.

Largest increases are anticipated in the junior colleges.

Buford Man Arrested In Fight With Minister

Rev. Mr. Walker's study about 4 p. m. and found the door locked. He said he looked in the window and saw the Rev. Mr. Walker inside and said: "Preacher, I want to talk to you." The minister opened the door and Hamner entered the study, he said.

"He offered me a seat in a chair by his desk," Hamner said, "and I said, 'You sit down.' Then the preacher hit me in the mouth and cut my lip. He struck the first blow.

"That knocked me off balance and he pushed me onto the desk. I finally got an arm around his neck and managed to straighten up. We struggled standing for a little bit and I finally got the best of him.

"I threw him to the floor and the preacher threw a chair at me from that position. Then I pulled some pliers from my pocket, jumped down on him, held his head back against the wall and hit him two or three times with the pliers.

"The preacher was bleeding pretty badly so I got off him to let him up. As he got off the floor he dived at me. I pushed him off as he dove toward me and went past me. Then he ran out the door and I left, got in my pickup truck and drove off."

A hearing on the warrants was set for 10 a.m. Thursday before Lawrenceville Justice of the Peace H. Rhodes Jordan.

Ex-Russell Jury Chief Arrested

reputed gambling figures questioned Tuesday by representatives of the acting sheriff, Col. Jack A. Warren.

Porter, interviewed at his Gadsden home, denied that he asked for or made any commitments with Phenix City gamblers. "The biggest fool thing I've done was place confidence in the wrong people," Porter said.

The Gadsden attorney was quoted as admitting the Phenix City contributions following testimony before the Jefferson County Grand Jury at Birmingham by Godwin Davis Sr., one of the kingpins of the smashed Phenix City gambling operations.

Davis told the jury that he and his associates contributed $22,600 to Porter's campaign. The 39-year-old attorney said he received "between $20,000 and $21,000" to finance his unsuccessful campaign for attorney general.

The grand jury was charged with the task of uncovering any links between a Jefferson County election fraud and the murder of Atty. Gen. Nominee Albert L. Patterson at Phenix City. Patterson defeated Porter by 1,454 votes in a runoff race.

600 VOTES

The grand jury indicted Ferrell, Atty. Gen. Si Garrett and Lamar Reid of Birmingham on charges of adding 600 votes to Porter's total in Jefferson County after the June 1 runoff. Reid has since resigned as Jefferson Democratic chairman.

Earlier, state investigators reopened a four-year-old night club slaying and a first-degree murder indictment was filed against gambling figure E. L. (Red) Cook, who has already been arrested twice in Phenix City's cleanup drive.

Cook, a Phenix City night club operator, was charged with killing John Mancil at the 601 Club on Aug. 6, 1950. He was notified of the murder complaint shortly after he was arrested on five counts of unlawfully helping voters cast their ballots in the recent Democratic primary election.

At the same time, National Guardsmen arrested Ferrell on a charge of public drunkenness and kept him in jail almost nine hours before releasing him on $300 bond. The deposed solicitor also was charged with drunk driving, speeding and reckless driving.

"IN CHARGE"

The Jefferson County Grand Jury, in discussing the Alabama attorney general's race, said:

"We find that Circuit Solicitor Ferrell and the Attorney General of Alabama, Si Garrett, were in charge of and directing Lee Porter's campaign."

Porter admitted the Birmingham grand jury was "correct up to a point" in the charge. He said Ferrell and Garrett "eased themselves in there in Montgomery without my knowledge or permission."

"I was out in the state campaigning and the first thing I knew Arch and Si were issuing statements over my name. Then they would contact me and tell me about the statements," Porter said.

"I couldn't do anything then, unless I wanted to repudiate them. And those fellows were working heart and soul to beat Albert Patterson and help me win. I couldn't publicly repudiate them, could I?" Porter asked.

Destroyer Off Bottom

GREENOCK, Scotland, Aug. 4 (AP)—The French destroyer Maille Breze, wrecked by an ammunition explosion in the Firth of Clyde in April, 1940, was raised today from her bed of mud 42 feet under water. She was towed to a sandbank where she will be pumped dry, patched and towed to a junk yard.

Anne's Ring-Studded Toe Gives Wolves a Kick

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 (AP)—Anne Baxter, who astonished friends by puffing a cigar in a night club a year ago, had them goggle-eyed again this week—at a pearl ring on a toe of her right foot.

The uninhibited Miss Baxter grandly explained she hopes to set a new fashion trend with her ring. She also believes women will start beautifying their tootsies so they can wear pinkie rings to best advantage.

"I got the idea for toe rings one day when I was sitting around my pool. My feet looked so naked I took a ring off my finger and slipped it over a toe," she said.

"It made all the difference in the world. I felt completely dressed.

"I went to my jeweler, Bud Tobias, and put my foot on his desk. He almost dropped dead when I said: 'I want to be fitted for a ring.'"

Anne went on to explain that Tobias played it straight, but couldn't find a ring size to fit her toe.

"Toes are much smaller than fingers," she laughed. "So he had to use a piece of string for a measure."

The glamor girl's new adornment is gold link—about the same size link as those found in men's identification bracelets. Attached to the top of the ring is an oval-shaped pearl. She wears it on the digit next to her big toe.

"My toe ring is really confusing the wolves. They used to look me over from head to toe and then back up again. Now they stop, bug-eyed, when they see the ring. It's wonderful fun," she said.

RADIO REVIEW

by DIXIE BEST

SMOOT

DAN SMOOT, one of the youngest men in radio to be in so responsible a position as editor of the Facts Forum programs (Thursday nights at 7:15 on WSB Radio), has been attacked from time to time by magazines and columnists who believe his presentation of questions leans too much to one side, and tends to be propaganda.

Smoot denies it flatly and says the programs, which are prepared in Dallas, Texas, are not "designed to tell anyone what he should think or how he should vote or whom he should support. The aim of all Facts Forum activities is to dispel public indifference by keeping the spotlight of public attention focussed on important questions."

DOCTOR SIXGUN—Judging from the calls and cards rolling in, Atlantans take to rugged Grey Matson, M.D., who travels the Territory in the 1870's with a six shooter strapped under his coat, as enthusiastically as they have already taken to Roy Rogers and the Lone Ranger. His friend Pablo and the talking raven named Midnight accompany Dr. Sixgun on many of his adventures among the people of Frenchman's Ford in western Kansas. Listen to this exciting new Western drama tonight at 8:30 on Radio 750.

AMERICAN STORY—This evening's segment of the great story of America's birth and growth will deal with that remarkable Englishman William Penn and the colony he founded at the head of the Delaware River. Any citizen who wants to know his country more deeply and accurately owes it to himself to follow these incidents from history which have been prepared by Broadcast Music, Inc., in association with the Society of American Historians. And any student who is planning to take American history in school will find his path made considerably easier if he follows these broadcasts each Thursday night at 9:35 on WSB Radio.

TOMMY

BARKING BARKER BARTLETT—Lots of people don't know what famous radio stars have to go through before they get famous. People seem to think that fame just drops like a cloak on the shoulders of the chosen—but that is very, VERY seldom the case.

Take genial Tommy Bartlett, the plump and popular star of Welcome Travelers, which is enjoyed by thousands, Monday through Friday afternoons at 3 o'clock. The first job Tommy ever landed in radio was that of a barking dog. Yes, that's right. All he had to do was watch the script closely and let out yelps at the proper moments. But he was determined—and his barking has paid off in good hard cash as well as in the affections of millions of Americans.

Reds Press For Parley On Security

Note Asks Session Of Big 4 Ministers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Russia today proposed a "Big Four" foreign ministers' meeting this fall to consider Moscow's already-rejected call for a "European security" plan.

The proposal, believed certain to be turned down, was contained in a formal note delivered to the State Department by Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin.

The State Department said only that Zarubin's visit "related to the proposal contained in the Soviet note of July 24 for a European conference."

The July 24 note, delivered to Britain, France and this country, called for a general conference of "interested" nations, including Red China, to meet in the next few months on Russia's "European security" plan.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference recently he saw no reason for a new meeting with Russia because Moscow has shown no willingness to negotiate honestly on such issues as Germany, Austria, European security or atomic energy.

Representatives of the United States, France and Britain are scheduled to meet in London tomorrow to draft a formal reply to the July 24 Soviet note. It is expected to be rejected, along with the new proposal which London sources said differed only slightly from the July 24 proposal.

MacArthur Resolution Dies in House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4(AP)—Objections by two Democrats blocked House action today on a resolution "tendering the gratitude of Congress" to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

The bill was among several hundred private bills brought up for consideration under procedure which permits them to be blocked by objections of at least two members. It had been cleared by the House Armed Services Committee.

The objections came from Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa) and Rep. Celler (D-NY) and automatically sent the bill back to the committee.

"PROFOUND GRATITUDE"

The resolution as approved by the committee expressed "the profound gratitude and abiding appreciation" of Congress for MacArthur's "unsurpassed service to his nation, to the preservation of freedom and to the enlightenment of humanity."

MacArthur was supreme allied commander in the Pacific during World War II and commanded United Nations forces during the Korean War until he was ousted by former President Truman.

Eberharter told reporters he objected to consideration of the bill under procedure not permitting debate.

"EMPTY GESTURE"

"To handle it this way, at the tag end of a batch of several hundred private bills, would make it only an empty and meaningless gesture," he said. "It would set a precedent which I don't think should be set without consideration."

Let God Loose Men's Chains, Canterbury Says

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 4 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury—Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher—said tonight man must turn to "God's truth" to save himself from "chains" he imposes on himself in a lust for power.

The archbishop, primate of all England, spoke at the first world meeting of the Anglican Communion ever held outside the British Isles. The "Anglican Congress" opened tonight and ends Aug. 13.

"In the world today more than ever before," the archbishop said, "the sense of truth is being distorted by the evils of propaganda and atrophied by moral decay.

"Freedom, without which truth cannot live, is threatened with extinction by the mounting forces of power groups of mass direction."

The archbishop, known to millions as the man who crowned Queen Elizabeth II, told the conference:

"God's truth and that alone can liberate men from the chains and fetters which they impose upon themselves."

Keep Southern Accent and Loyalty, Byrnes Tells Miss Universe in S. C.

WINNSBORO, S.C., Aug. 4 (AP)—Miriam Stevenson, who is Miss U.S.A. and Miss Universe, got a word of advice today from another famous South Carolinian, Gov. James F. Byrnes.

Miss Universe

Mr. S. Carolina

"Be yourself," the governor told the beauty queen. "Don't let Hollywood change either your Southern accent or your Southern loyalty."

Byrnes made a welcoming address before a crowd of several thousand gathered here at a hometown reception for the shapely blonde farm girl. She has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Stevenson. She will return to California Aug. 12 to start work at Universal-International Studio, which awarded her a $250-a-week contract after she won the Miss Universe contest at Long Beach.

"From what your neighbors tell me about you," Byrnes declared, "I have no fear that the plaudits of the people will turn your pretty head. I hope you will keep that head in the air and those feet on the ground."

Willed Fortune, Stays at Job

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 4 (AP) — A timid little spinster said today she will establish a scholarship fund with her unexpected inheritance of an estimated $500,000 and keep on working for a living.

"My salary is quite enough for my mother and me to live on," said Rita Harnett, who has worked 35 years for Western Union. She is a telegraph supervisor.

She learned yesterday that Doyle Campbell, 73-year-old attorney she had nursed with "home cooking," cut his relatives out of his will and named her sole beneficiary of his large real estate holdings. Campbell died Friday.

In his will, Campbell wrote, "I wish it clearly and distinctly understood that I have not overlooked or forgotten those who are near and dear to me by blood or marriage, but all have been omitted from sharing in my estate for reasons best known to them."

It was not known whether Campbell's closest relative, a brother, Sherod Campbell of Mansfield, Ga., would contest the will.

School Leaders Ready Budget Data for Solons

By HERMAN HANCOCK

An estimate of budgetary demands for a steadily expanding city school system is being prepared by school administration leaders so that needed emergency legislation can be passed at the 1955 session of the Georgia Legislature.

A special committee studying school finances has requested Miss Ira Jarrell, school superintendent, to draft needs for next year and also for projected future growth so that the "problem of financing schools can be approached intelligently."

Ed S. Cook

Ed S. Cook, committee chairman, pointed out that the present $13,000,000 annual budget is inadequate to finance a program to which $7,000,000 worth of new schools will be added within the next year and another $5,000,000 will be built from the recently approved $10,000,000 city bond issue.

Miss Jarrell said Atlanta schools spend an average of $183 per pupil based on average daily attendance, while the national average is $301 per pupil.

"We simply must have more money if we are to meet demands for new educational facilities," Miss Jarrell said. "The committee is approaching the problem with a view of performing a public service and its recommendations will be in the public interest. Every member has the interests of education and the public at heart and will seek conscientiously to find a fair solution."

5th District Aspirants In Debate

Fifth District congressional candidates exchanged charges of election-fixing, race-baiting, ineffectual representation and heavy campaign spending in a heated exchange Wednesday night on WSB-TV's Press Gallery.

The three aspirants for the congressional seat from Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties asked each other more questions than reporters asked them, frequently interrupted each other and kept things humming for the moderator.

Candidate Morris Abram early in the program labeled incumbent Rep. James C. Davis "Mr. Minority Congressman," and later Davis began addressing Abram as "Mr. Captive Candidate." The two battered each other with charges and counter - charges as Wyman C. Lowe, the third candidate, leveled most of his shots at Davis.

"ONLY ONE IN U.S."

Abram said his nickname for Davis was used because the incumbent, under the county unit system, was the only congressman in the United States who went to the House without being elected by a majority of the people.

Davis countered that he, as Democratic nominee, was overwhelmingly elected in the general election.

Abram, interrupting him, said everybody knows the Democratic primary is the real election and the 1953 candidate Baxter Jones Jr. would have won the nomination except for the unit system.

Davis said he was "wrongfully accused of fixing the rules" and that he continued to allow the district convention to name the committee.

"BITTERLY OPPOSED"

Lowe said he was "bitterly opposed" to the unit system.

The incumbent called Abram "Mr. Captive Candidate," he said, because his opponent, supported by labor, has to run his campaign "according to the CIO Political Action Committee."

Davis then accused Abram of violating his own promise of a campaign free of prejudices by telling a white audience in Fulton that 400 Negro voters in Rockdale could cancel out 8,000 white votes in Fulton under the unit system.

Lowe accused Davis of "shutting the door" against groups "like Negroes and labor unions" who voted against the incumbent. Davis denied the charge, saying he recently got a job for the daughter of a CIO organizer.

Abram said he expected Davis to inject racial issues in the campaign "as he has every time he has run."

"EVERYTHING"

Davis denied charges by Abram that he ineffectually represented the district when he allowed the government to move six major federal agencies from Atlanta. The incumbent said he and other Southern congressmen did "everything in our power" to halt a Republican reorganization plan that took the agencies away.

Lowe at one point asked Abram where he got $4,000 you spent in newspaper advertising and radio and television time in the last two days?" Abram countered that almost half of the money came from his own savings and the rest was donated by "friends and supporters."

Atlanta Journal Editor James Saxon Childers served as moderator on the program, with City Editor Don Carter and Asst. City Editor Harold Davis questioning the candidates.

City Schedules Auction Of 80 Autos, Trucks

Several late model vehicles in good condition will be included in the 80 autos and trucks to be auctioned off by the city Thursday.

The sale, starting at 10 a.m. at the Robinson and Stephens parking lot, Auburn Ave. and Courtland St., NE, will feature unclaimed vehicles abondoned on city streets during the past three months.

3 Killed as French Fight Tunis Nationalists

PARIS, Aug. 4 (AP)—French parachute troops battled a band of 50 Nationalists today in the Kasserine district of Tunisia, breaking the uneasy calm which had settled over that North African protectorate since France offered the Tunisians internal autonomy. Offiial reports here said two outlaws and one Frenchman were killed in the battle near the town of Faid.

HUH!—SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 4—Linda Hilgenberg, not quite four months old, got her first haircut today. The hair, 5½ inches long, needed clipping to cure heat rash. Linda slept through it all in the arms of her mother, Priscilla, then woke to take a horrified look at results.

Poland Demands Seaman

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Poland tonight handed a strong protest note to Britain demanding the return of a Polish seaman who sought asylum in this country.

The seaman, Antoni Klimowicz, 24, a stowaway, was removed from the Polish ship Haroslaw Dabrowski last Saturday night by London police.

They acted on a writ of habeas corpus issued by England's lord chief justice after it was reported the seaman was being held aboard against his will.

WINTER'S COMING

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—It was summer, but the state ordered its tire chains. The Purchasing Department said the state pays out nearly $4,000 for tire chains every year.

3 Senators Nominated With Ease

By United Press

Incumbent senators in Kansas, Michigan and West Virginia won renomination easily in Tuesday's primary elections.

In West Virginia, incumbent Democratic Sen. Matthew M. Neely won nomination to an unprecedented fifth term, rolling up a crushing margin of three to one over the combined votes of two opponents.

Similarly in Kansas, Republican Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel crushed two little-known foes. In Michigan, Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson was unopposed on his ticket.

VOTE FOR MOODY

Patrick V. McNamara won the Democratic senatorial nomination in Michigan, although a heavy vote was cast for former Sen. Blair Moody, whose name was on the ballot despite his recent death.

Michigan voters also selected former State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard to carry the GOP gubernatorial banner against Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who was unopposed for nomination to run for a fourth term.

The Kansas primary was marked by a setback for the state's Republican organization when Lt. Gov. Fred Hall won his bid for the gubernatorial nomination. He defeated George Templar, who had carried the backing of top GOP officeholders and officials.

EX-SENATOR WINS

The Kansas Democratic senatorial race was captured by former Sen. George McGill, who lost to Schoeppel in 1948, while in West Virginia Tom Sweeney won over Latele LaFollette for the GOP senatorial nomination and the right to oppose Neely.

A dull Missouri primary was marked by the close win of Rep. Dewey Short, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, over state Sen. Noel Cox, who conceded when Short pulled 6,000 votes ahead. The veteran Short seeks his 13th term in the House.

All of Missouri's 10 other incumbent congressmen won renomination, while West Virginia's six incumbents triumphed. In Kansas also the state's six GOP incumbent congressmen were renominated.

'Dien Angel' Gets War Film Offer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 (AP)—French Army nurse Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, given the title of "The Angel of Dien Bien Phu," has been offered a movie role to portray herself in a film based on the Indo-China war, it was disclosed today.

The famed nurse was asked to appear in the Warner Bros. film, "Jump Into Hell," starting in two weeks. Screen writer Irving Wallace said that if she did not care to appear in the picture or was not permitted to do so by the French government, the studio hoped to hire her as a technical adviser.

The Man Who Split the T

Don Faurot, the football scientist who split the T, stood tall, lean and whippet-like on the dais of the Biltmore Hotel's exhibition hall. He was doodling on the blackboard, making X's here and O's there and whipping out with an arrow in one direction and another arrow coming up to meet it, and talking all this time.

"If they're using a tight 5-4 against you," he said, "then you send out a flanker this way, or that way. Now there's only one coach I know who wouldn't cover a flanker. That was Howie Odell of Washington, and he isn't coaching any more, so I don't guess that was such a good idea."

No pointed attempt at humor, see. Football coaches are pretty sensitive about the economic welfare of one another. Faurot just happened to make a feint at the notion as it occurred to him and quickly went ahead. Pretty soon the clock moved around to 10:30, and he dismissed his morning class for recess.

Wally Butts of Georgia came up to give his contemporary from Missouri a handshake, and Red Drew of Alabama and Harry Mehre of Unattached followed. "Somebody was telling me this morning," Faurot said to Drew, "that it looks like Alabama's got the team in the South this year."

"It always seems to look that way in Atlanta," said the man from Dwyer Brook, Me., "but over at Tuscaloosa it looks strangely like Georgia Tech."

"Why, last night I said something about the Tech-Alabama game settling a few things next fall," Butts said, "and Drew lectured me for 20 minutes. He suah is mighty sensitive."

"We don't have that problem out in the Big Seven," Faurot said. "It's just a question of who's going to be second to Oklahoma every year. They're picking us to go to the Orange Bowl, but the only reason is that Oklahoma can't go back."

—Duke Ends Crashed and Missed

Faurot might conceivably be a jealous man in the case of the T-formation he split. Generally, it is assumed that the split-T was a thing conceived during the war and used by only Jim Tatum and Bud Wilkinson. Actually, Faurot installed it at Missouri in 1940 and it came about much in the manner of a fellow drilling for water and striking oil.

"I'd been watching George Halas and Clark Shaughnessy use the T and liked the idea. We'd used some pitchouts to Paul Christman with a lot of success. Paul was slow, you see, and by using the pitchout we could get him out there and moving with the ball.

"Well, I decided to have the quarterback move in the same direction so that we could make the pitchout wider. It worked and it won, the conference championship and a bid to the Sugar Bowl for us in 1941." That was the mud battle Fordham won, 2-0, while the rain came down in sheets and the stadium floor became a hog wallow.

"It really didn't become popular until Wilkinson and Tatum started using it after the war," Faurot said. No jealousy, see, rather a man seemingly delighted to be complimented by such flattery.

"First good look I ever got of the split-T," said one fellow, "was the day Missouri beat Duke in Durham in 1947."

"Then you got a good look. That's one of the best days I ever had with the split-T. Wallace Wade was coaching at Duke and he believed in that tough, hard-knocking kind of football. He kept crashing his ends all day and our backs had a picnic, keeping and going inside them, or pitching out and going wide."

—The Quarterback Is a Thinking Man

During his lecture Faurot had told the coaches how he'd solved a problem of defensive signal-calling. Somebody came up and wanted to know more about it.

"I found out you just can't train a linebacker to be a good signal-caller in a year," Faurot said. "For instance, last year we were behind Maryland just one touchdown with seven seconds left to play. Our linebacker called a tight 5-4 defense and the Maryland quarterback threw a pass for a touchdown on the last play of the game.

"About mid-season I got what I think is the right idea. I put my quarterbacks, Tony Scardino and Vic Eaton, to calling defensive as well as offensive signals. You see, the quarterback is trained to be thinking. He knows what that other quarterback is thinking. It must have worked, for the last six teams we played scored only five touchdowns on us."

Georgia Tech's belly play, Faurot contends, wastes manpower. "The quarterback and the fullback are of no use," he said. "On the split-T pitchout they're at work, as blockers or eligible ball carriers. The only touchdown scored in the Orange Bowl game last year was a pitchout play on which the Oklahoma quarterback threw a key block. Still, you can't argue with success, and Tech has had success with the belly play.

"In the end, though, all these are minor things, really. The major thing is getting the material that can do these things."

Crax Defeat Barons Twice

Kelly Wins First in 75 Days; Donovan Takes Nightcap, 10-0

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 4—"Our club wins the big ones," Manager Whitlow Wyatt has insisted all along, and Tuesday night they won what may prove to be their two most important triumphs of the year.

Dick Kelly, who hadn't won a game in 75 days, flipped a four-hitter in a 12-2 first-game romp over Birmingham, and Dick Donovan fashioned his second shutout in a row as Atlanta completed the doubleheader sweep, 10-0.

It was a prosperous day indeed, for New Orleans lost to Mobile, and the Crackers zoomed into first place by a full game. The two setbacks shoved the Barons two lengths off the pace, with two more contests remaining in the series.

Donovan's six-hit gem over the nine-inning course was the first shutout of the year at Rickwood, to the dismay of 7,531 customers. It also extended Dick's skein of zeroes to 22 straight, and, over a 43-inning span, he has yielded a mere four runs. (Three earned).

Kelly's four-hit sparkler was a surprise to say the least, for the little lefty hadn't rung up a victory since he tamed Little Rock way back on May 20. Since then he had started and failed to finish 10 consecutive outings.

But Wyatt gambled on Kelly in the big one, and picked up a big blue chip as Dick evened his record, 4-4.

Chuck Tanner was the hitting star of the double duel, driving in four runs in each game. He smashed his first homer at Rickwood, where he has been visiting for four years, in the opener, and added a couple of singles. A double and a pair of singles supplied Chuck's RBI power in the second affair.

Pete Whisenant powered his 15th round-tripper in the first inning of the lid-lifter, and his third in three days. This started the Crackers off on the right foot, and they never lost step.

Junior Wooten was aboard via a single when Whisenant jolted a Dave Benedict serve into the left-field seats. That put the Barons behind for keeps.

Kelly, who had a shutout brewing for three innings, lost it in the fourth when Lou Skizas pounded a homer into the left-field section with one on. Otherwise, he was in complete command.

The Crackers put over what proved to be the winning run in the runaway in the fourth. Bob Kline's error gave Frank Di Prima life, and, an out later, Frank Torre doubled DiPrima home.

Getting maximum production out of three singles, two errors and a pair of walks, the Crackers boosted their bulge to 8-2 in the fifth. Benedict, who now has a 12-5 record, was dismissed during this disturbance. His successor, Erie Nichols, didn't have either, and fed Tanner his three-run homer in the sixth, as the Crackers completed their first-game scoring.

Donovan, who had won his first two games via homers, scored the first run en route to his 12th success, his fifth in a row.

This marker came in the first when Donovan doubled, buzzed to third on a Vern Petty single and scored on a force-out.

Thus, the combined total for the night was Atlanta 22, Birmingham two, which avenges the 21-2 lashing applied to the Crackers on their last visit here.

Holding a 2-1 edge in the five-game set, Wyatt will send Leo Cristante after his 20th victory Thursday night. Bob Ferris will be his foe.

Avila Blow, Lemon Arm Down Yanks

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4 (AP)—Bob Avila whacked a three-run homer and the Indians blasted through three Yankee pitchers tonight as Cleveland upped its American League lead to 2½ games in a 5-2 victory over New York.

Righthander Bob Lemon gained his 14th victory, holding the Yankees to five hits in the seven innings he worked.

The Tribe grabbed all its runs and seven hits off the veteran Allie Reynolds, who was removed for a pinch hitter in the fifth.

Winning his fifth victory in a row, Lemon tired in the seventh, and Mike Garcia finished, facing only six men in the last two rounds.

SOUTHERN ROUNDUP

Bears Bump Pels, 7-4; Gene Freese Is Injured

By BILL FERGUSON
United Press Sports Writer

The Mobile Bears, riding a six-game winning streak, knocked New Orleans out of the Southern Association lead Wednesday night by downing the Pelicans, 7-6.

Earl Mossor and Bob Ludwick held the Pelicans to nine blows, including a two-run homer by J. C. Powers.

The Bears jumped Pel starter Cal Hogue for four runs in the second inning and held on for the victory.

The Pels' Gene Freese, the loop's leading hitter, was benched after pulling a muscle in a pre-game exhibition race. He probably will be out for some time.

Fourth-spot Chattanooga dropped Nashville, 4-1, as Gerry Lane stopped the Vols with a five-hitter to earn his 12th victory.

Joe Stupak blanked the Lookouts for five innings, but handed out a single run in the sixth and two more in the seventh when Bruce Barmes hit a bases-loaded single.

Marv Rotblatt pitched Memphis to a 6-4 decision over Little Rock.

HAMBLETONIAN WINNER NEWPORT DREAM DRIVES HOME IN FRONT IN FIRST HEAT AT GOSHEN

Hobbled Newport Dream Captures Hambletonian

Speedy Bay Colt Forgets Aches, Wins Sulky Derby in Two Heats

By JOHN CHANDLER

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—Newport Dream, a partly lame colt with a great fighting heart, forgot his aches and pains long enough today to defeat 15 other 3-year-old trotters in a thrilling windup of the $106,830 Hambletonian Stake at Good Time Park.

The speedy bay son of Axomite-Miss Key, who was the 2-year-old champion of 1953, dashed the hopes of his opposition by winning this 29th sulky derby in two straight heats.

Newport Dream, owned by the Newport Stock Farm of Octave Blake, South Plainfield, N. J., had been the winter book favorite for this classic but was plagued all spring and summer with a mystery injury. In fact, the colt only started one race this season before today—a week ago at Vernon Downs, N. Y., where he finished second in two heats of the Hambletonian Test Stakes.

But Driver-Trainer Del Cameron patched him up and got him out there today to show who was boss of the 3-year-old trotting division.

In the first heat, Newport Dream started from unfavorable 15th post position in the second tier but took command near the turn for home in the mile dash and won by three lengths over Princess Rodney with Viki Hanover third. Princess Rodney is owned by the Walnut Hall Stud, Donerail, Ky., and Viki Hanover by Stanley Cooper of Port Jervis, N. Y.

Then, while many wondered whether the game little scrapper would hold together an hour later in the second heat, Newport Dream provided the answer.

But, It was a stunner, with Newport Dream whipping under the wire in a blanket photo finish with three others. Newport Dream got the decision by a head over Harlan, owner by C. M. Provost, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Batts' Single Gives Chisox 6-5 Win Over Bosox in 10

Boston Rally Not Enough

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—A bases-loaded single by catcher Matt Batts in the 10th inning today gave the Chicago White Sox a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox, who rallied to force the game into overtime after seven scoreless innings.

Relief pitcher Ellis Kinder had walked Nelson Fox, George Kell and Jim Rivera to set the stage for Batts' hit.

Pierce Noses Thomas In City Junior Golf

Birdie Deuce on 2nd Extra Hole Gives 15-Year-Old Opening Win

By BERT PRATHER

Teenagers Bobby Pierce and Charles Thomas III are not supposed to play golf like tournament-tough veterans, but they did Wednesday afternoon over the sun-baked fairways of American Legion Country Club.

Clashing in a first round match in the City Junior Championship they grappled through 20 holes before 15-year-old Pierce won the match with a birdie deuce on the second extra hole that just missed being an ace by about 10 inches.

The pair finished the regulation 18 with even par 70s, carding 34's on the front and 36 on the back nine. On the first extra hole they halved with birdie fours. Thomas started with a rush, winning the first two holes, but he lost five to an eagle two and nine to a birdie deuce.

Pierce won 10 with a birdie four. Thomas squared it with a birdie three win at 12, lost the advantage to a birdie three at 14 and then reeled off two straight wins at 15 and 16 to go 1-up. But Pierce fought back, chipping in for a birdie at 17 to square it.

Pierce's second round foe Thursday morning at 11:45 will be 13-year-old Jerry Greenbaum who scored a smashing 10 and 8 victory over Don O'Brien. This match should be the day's feature attraction.

Medalist Mike Harvey and defending champion Alvin (Red) Ellis both survived first round firing. Harvey tripped Roy McCollum, 2-up, while Ellis defeated Coty Cotsakis, 4 and 2.

Don Patterson, a 14-year-old, turned in the day's biggest upset when he trimmed smooth-stroking Billy Baird, 2 and 1, with even par golf.

Bobby Boylston was another upsetter, dashing the hopes of highly-rated C. L. Straughan Jr., 2-up.

Championship flight pairings:

11:40 a.m.—Harvey vs. Farrell Farr; 11:45—Pierce vs. Greenbaum; 11:50—Patterson vs. Robert Anderson; 11:55—Ellis vs. Boylston.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT—Mike Harvey beat Roy McCollum, 2-up; Farrell Farr beat Denny Arrington, 5 and 4; Bobby Pierce beat Charles Thomas III, 1-up, 20 holes; Jerry Greenbaum beat Don O'Brien, 10 and 8; Don Patterson beat Billy Baird, 2 and 1; Robert Anderson beat Bobby Lemming, default; Alvin Ellis beat Coty Cotsakis, 4 and 2; Bobby Boylston beat C. L. Straughan, 2-up.

FIRST FLIGHT—Allen Kaufman beat Gene Garmon, 2 and 1; Gene Willingham beat Johnny Campbell, 5 and 4; Bobby Pomeroy beat Marshall Clarke, 7 and 5; Al Hallum beat Jimmy Campbell, 4 and 3; Rickie Lovell beat Howell Middlebrooks, 3 and 1; Dennis Freeman beat Holcomb Green, 7 and 6; Dennis Fischer beat Gene Belcher, 1-up, 19 holes; Jimmy Livingstone beat Hugh Cobb, 7 and 6.

SECOND FLIGHT—Richard Tatum beat Johnny O'Brion, 5 and 3; Jerry Schran beat Bobby Brown, 3 and 2; Jimmy Cleveland beat Jimmy King, 1-up; Ray Webb beat Bill Sams, 2 and 1; George Beach beat Mike Tucker, 2 and 1; Frank Barnhill beat Jimmy Grant, 10 and 8; Lonnie Brown Jr. beat Tony Owens, 1-up.

THIRD FLIGHT—Joe Segal beat Ray Whitten, 6 and 5; Roy Forward Jr. beat Tommy Herren, 7 and 5; Stanley Staton beat Don Fletcher, 6 and 5; Don Joe Cotter beat George Dozier, 5 and 4; Jerry Cohran beat Harry DuPre, 4 and 3; Morris Ewing beat Tiny Williamson, 4 and 3; Don Osborn beat Richard Cobb, 1-up, 19 holes; Howard Feuer beat Larry Oglesby, 4 and 3.

FOURTH FLIGHT—Joe Sugg beat Spencer Carter, default; Mike Power beat Felton Haggood, 6 and 5; Jimmy Davis beat Franklin Willingham, 1-up, 19 holes; Ray Dalton beat Steve Harris, 1-up, 19 holes; Eddie Loveless beat Floyd Henderson, default; Lamar Cobb beat Tommy Barnes Jr., 4 and 3; Bobby Fowler beat Bobby Lawrence, 8 and 7; Edward Shaw beat Bob Allen, 1-up, 19 holes.

FIFTH FLIGHT—Joe Veale beat Billy Pierce, 6 and 5; Smokey Poole beat M. Caldwell, default; Mickey Brinkley beat Terry Jacobs, 7 and 6; David Clotfelter beat Dookie Barnes, 3 and 2; Buddy Arwood beat John Macrenaris, 9 and 7; Ken Edmonds beat Charles Barnes, 6 and 5; Ronnie Straughan beat Jerry Straughan, 8 and 7; Bobby Cleveland advanced on bye.

POINTING FOR FURMAN

N.C. State Counting On Foe's Cooperation

By MEL DERRICK

"We can have a pretty good football season," new N.C. State football coach Earle Edwards was saying Wednesday night, "if some of our opponents cooperate with us."

Then he leaned back in his chair and smiled, the smile of a man who's joking and knows he's joking.

In Atlanta for a meeting of the college's alumni, the new head coach realizes his job will be no soft touch. But he's quietly confident State can produce "in a couple of years."

The cigar - smoking Edwards takes over a ball club that won only one game last season while losing nine. And State's '53 freshman outfit offers little in the way of help.

"I saw in a football magazine the other day," Edwards continued, "where State is underdog to everybody next season but Furman.

"I don't know what those selectors have against Furman."

Edwards, who came to the North Carolina college after five seasons as an assistant coach at Michigan State, has a long tradition of winning behind him. The Spartans lost only five games in his five years there while Penn State, where Edwards was also an assistant, dropped only one game in his last two seasons.

"That's six losses in seven years," he mused. "I could easily top that in one N.C. State season."

Edwards, who will use Michigan State's famous multiple-offense with the Wolfpack, feels his squad will develop in a few years.

"For '54, we're thin on material. Too many injuries could wreck us. Three of our top boys—quarterback Eddie West and linemen Al D'Angelo and Colbert Micklene—missed spring practice with injuries. West led the team in both passing and rushing last year and we've only got sophomore, Billy Franklin, to replace him if anything happens.

"But if some of our opponents would only cooperate . . . ."

The Atlanta Tomboys' softball team will play host to Birmingham's 7-Up girls for a twin bill, starting at 7 p.m. Saturday night on the Piedmont Park diamond.

Atlantans Win in Jaycee Tennis

Special to The Constitution

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Aug. 4. Georgia's entries were hotter than Ohio's weather here Wednesday as action continued in the National Jaycee tennis tournament.

In boys doubles competition, Shepard Ansley and Ned Neely came through with a brisk exhibition of tennis to oust Utah's Lynn Olsen and Ray Neville, 6-1 and 6-0.

In the junior doubles bracket, Charles Tuller teamed with Crawford Henry for a second round victory over Bob Yount and Pete Berwick of Arizona, 10-8 and 6-1.

Crawford returned for addition singles play Wednesday when he met Mike Poinzner of Kansas City, Kan.

Tourney officials had not completed Wednesday's schedule at a late hour as Tuesday's action was twice delayed by rain.

Tuller and Henry were pushed to the limit by Yount and Berwick in the first set but coordinated their attack with a steady brand of play to breeze through in the payoff match.

Doubles competition will be resumed Thursday afternoon.

Greater Atlantans Seek Win To Avenge Setback in 1953

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The all-biceps-and-torso football boys will give way to the long-of-body-short-of-pants lads for the Thursday night playing of the City vs. Greater Atlanta All-Star basketball game at the O'Keefe High gym.

Eight o'clock is starting time for this spotlighted annual feature of the Georgia Athletic Coaches Association Clinic, running the fourth day of its five-day course.

Bill Bryce's City League stars captured the duke in a 54-50 thriller a year ago, and the Greater Atlantans will be out to even matters for Coach Elmer Morrow, whose Druid Hills' quintets have copped the state Class A title two years running—and shooting.

Four city quints reached the state Class AA quarterfinals, three the semis and one the finals in The Constitution-sponsored tournament this year. And Coach Shirley Watkins, whose Smith five bowed to Columbus Baker in the finals, will have seven stars from those four teams going for him.

He can match Morrow's six-foot-five James Johnson of Conyers and 6-4 Hammond Stith of Russell with North Fulton's 6-5 Hal Blackmarr and his own 6-4 Bobby Keanum.

Blackmarr will start at center, Keanum at one forward and Brown's Pudgy Hartsfield (6-0), whom Watkins' tabs "the best defensive player hereabouts in years," at one guard.

Likewise is Morrow certain of three starters: Johnson at center, Stith at forward and Druid Hills' play-making Bob Thompson (6-0) at guard.

Others from Atlanta's "Big Four" of 1954 on Watkins' 10-man squad are Smith's Gilbert Adair (6-3), Brown's Charlie Wooddall (6-2) and Crawford Kennedy (6-0) and O'Keefe's Dickie Duncan (5-10). Roosevelt's accomplished Jack Bush (6-2) will spell Blackmarr at center. West Fulton's Cecil Welch (6-3) will see action at forward, Sylvan's Frank Applegate (5-10) at guard.

Marist's Catholic All-America Bubba Brisbane (6-3), College Park's Jerry Livingston (6-1), Southwest DeKalb's Bill Watkins (6-1), Decatur's Earle Fuller (5-10), Campbell of Smyrna's Fred Herren (6-1), Chamblee's Bruce Hauck (6-0) and Druid Hills' Buddy Edwards (6-0) are other Greater Atlanta squadsmen.

Morrow's teams are noted for their control ball tactics and the frequently-used all-court press. Watkins' units usually play race-horse ball, although he quips, "These Brown boys just won't get out of that snail's pace for a Smith coach." (Roy Rowlett's Brown teams always purposely slow the pace when playing Smith's like-to-run folks).

Bob Thompson, Pudgy Hartsfield Captain All-Stars

Don (Pudgy) Hartsfield, twice an all-state basketball selectee at Brown High, and Bob Thompson, a star for Druid Hills' two straight State Class A title teams, were chosen to captain City and Greater Atlanta All-Stars in Thursday night's game at O'Keefe. Hammond Stith of Russell was named alternate captain of the Greater Atlanta team.

Guard Hartsfield received every vote of his teammates.

HUSKY SOUTH ALL-STARS BLOCK PATH OF NORTH FRIDAY NIGHT

400 Pounds of Trouble: Jesup Tackle Jim Grantham (L), Tifton Guard Don Beasley

DeLany Singled Out As Most Dangerous

Lofton, Anderson, Vickery Up North All-Stars' Stock

"Joe DeLany" was the answer more than half of the dozens of coaches asked gave to the question as they sat or stood around watching North and South football squads drill for the fifth day at Rose Bowl Field.

The question? "What player of the 66 on the two squads would you say has been most outstanding in practice and is most likely to be one of the top standouts in Friday night's GACA All-Star game at Grant Field?"

"DeLany has been the most dangerous runner of all. He can do more things well. He can haul back punts like crazy. He can tackle and pass, do it all." Those were some of the answers given as coach after coach appraised the potential of the Georgia Tech-bound former North Fulton High all-round athlete.

North team Coach Erskine Russell was inclined to feel that way, too, and named DeLany, Grady fullback Wilbur Lofton, West Point's Rannie Smith and Bass' Gene Reeves as his definite starting offensive backs.

David Brotherton, Rossville's 202-pound Duke bequeathed guard, was the only non-Atlantan to be chosen to the starting offensive line. Russell and line mentor Gene Alexander will go with Northside's R. K. Brown and North Fulton's Paul Vickers at end, Murphy's Roy Vickery and Brown's Leon Askew at tackle, Murphy's Mike Anderson at the guard opposite Brotherton, and Grady's Walter Stovall at center.

Russell advises that Decatur's Charlie Maynard will carry much of the quarterbacking load when the North uses the T formation. He has looked extremely good. Reeves, a 190-pounder, will direct most of the single wing attack.

One veteran college coach said, "I'll pick the North in this one after a tough struggle. DeLany and that hard-running Lofton plus those big Murphy maulers (Vickery and Anderson) in the line will be the difference. Those four are all superior players." (Lofton and Anderson are Georgia-bound. Vickery is going to Alabama.)

ALL-STAR TIDBITS—South Coach Knuck McCrary will start Lindsey Bass, Tifton's 191-pound, 6-4 end, at one flank on offense opposite Albany's Billy Swilley. Otherwise his lineup will be as announced in Wednesday's Constitution . . . Reeves, Smith, Maynard and DeLany will all do some passing for the North. Reeves, Lofton and Smith—in that order—will do the punting . . . Extra point chores have been alloted to Toccoa's Garfield Cobb and LaGrange's Danny Sherrer . . . DeLany, Sherrer and Ellijay's Jack Ledford will do the punt returning . . . North linebacking will be handled chiefly by light but lightning-like Billy Peeples (160) of Griffin, Dwight Horton of Northside (164) and Ed Crawford (185) of Decatur. ROBERTS

Hensley Forced To Leave Pros With Hurt Ankle

Hobbled by a bad ankle, former Georgia Tech co-captain Sam Hensley has given up pro football and will reenter Tech this fall.

Hensley, named the Yellow Jackets most valuable lineman in 1953, returned to his home in Smyrna Tuesday morning from Edmonton, Alberta, where he had been working out with the Canadian League Eskimos.

Hensley injured his ankle during the third quarter of the 1953 Tech-Georgia game and rehurt it while playing basketball this spring. The weak ankle refused to hold up during practice and the big end decided to call it quits for this season.

Bannister, Landy Must Earn Berths

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 4 (AP)—The two men who took the mile apart quarter by quarter and shattered its 4-minute pride will run that familiar 1,760 yards for the first time tomorrow in the British Empire Games — but not one against the other.

John Michael Landy and Dr. Roger Gilbert Bannister must earn their berths in Saturday's mile race, just like common runners.

But each has come half way around the world to match strides and they aren't likely to miss their cues in the prelims, even if they have to flirt again with the 4-minute figure.

Australia's John Landy will be first to toe the mark, going in the first of the two trial heats at 4:50 p.m., Pacific Daylight Time. He's the world record claimant, clocked officially in 3 minutes 58 seconds.

England's Roger Bannister runs in the second heat some 10 or 15 minutes later. He was the first human to beat 4 minutes, the clock catching him in a 3:59.4. Eight gallopers from over the Empire will oppose Bannister. There are seven ready to run with Landy.

The field will be culled to eight men for the Saturday climax, with four surviving each of the Thursday events.

Hernando Wins

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—Unseeded Rudy Hernando of Detroit today scored his second upset as he went into the final round of the boys' 15-and-under division of the 17th River Forest Junior Open Tennis tourney.

STOPS NATCHEZ, 12-11

Haskins Hurls Ocala Into Babe Ruth Finals

By QUENTIN ANDERSON

Charles Haskins came in the sixth inning and stopped a Natchez, Miss., rally to give Ocala, Fla., a 12-11 victory in the second round of Southeastern Babe Ruth region play Wednesday afternoon at Glenn Field.

Haskins, a little runt of a fellow weighing around 96 pounds with a "Louisville Slugger" in each hand, faltered at first allowing three walks and a double before he got Natchez's Butch Kempinksa to fly out.

He was the third pitcher that Ocala used. Randy Watson started, was yanked in the sixth and relieved by Butch Hugli, who pitched to only three men before he was benched.

Ocala jumped to an early eight-run lead in the first frame, behind a three-run homer over the right-field fence by a .482 hitter, Sidney Doss.

Natchez, last year's national champion, caught Buckhead in the final inning of Tuesday's game, and looked as if they might be able to pull a repeat performance in the sixth frame against Ocala.

When Big Chief Jerry Kemerling hit safely after Lamar Bradley walked, Bobby Sanders followed up with a double. Jackie Poole, Henry Cooley and hurler Jackie Pennington were walked until the threat was finally killed.

All told, Natchez capitalized on three hits for five runs in the big sixth frame.

Again in the final stanza, Sanders slashing a triple to right. Poole backed this with another to left, and again, trailing by one run, it looked as if the Mississippians might have done it again. But Haskins got the last two outs on a pop-up to the catcher and a strike-out.

Ocala plays Jackson, Tenn. Thursday in the final championship game at 4 p.m.

Canned Rabbit Killed

OAK RIVER, Manitoba—Frank Hayburst shot a bush rabbit at Oak River, Manitoba, and when he reached it the body was inside a tin can. But the rabbit's legs were free.

Belardi Tops Nats, 6-2, With Homer

DETROIT, Aug. 4 (AP)—Wayne Belardi, 23-year-old first baseman, lined a two-run homer into the right field seats to cap a three-run rally in the seventh inning today and give the Detroit Tigers a 6-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

Belardi's homer, his ninth of the season, carried Ned Garver to his ninth victory against seven losses. The Tiger righthander scattered six hits and reduced his earned run average to 2.33—best in the league.

The Tigers were held scoreless until the seventh, mystified by the offerings of 39-year-old Connie Marrero, an old jinx. Detroit collected eight hits in the first six innings against Marrero, but the Cuban righthander wouldn't yield.

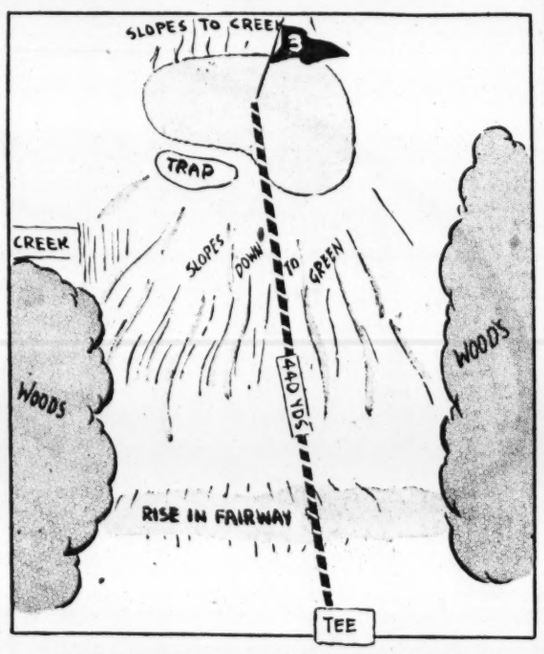
ALL-ATLANTA 18

No. 3 at Standard Sneaks Up on You



NO. 3 AT STANDARD CLUB, PAR FOUR, 440 YARDS

(What are the toughest 18 holes on Atlanta's 22 golf courses? This is the 16th in a series that picks them out for you. Selections were made by pros and leading amateurs and written by staffer Jimmy Mann.)

If you are new to the Standard Town and Country Club then you will be on top of the course's toughest hole before you can see the green.

From the No. 3 tee on the par four, 440-yard back breaker, a high hill in the fairway obstructs the view of the green and only points toward another hill where the average tee shot should carry in order to set up a second to the carpet.

From the second hill the approach with a long iron is aimed at the top of the flag, only visible sign of the finish of the hole. Sliced or hooked tee shots will carry into woods and cost strokes.

To the left, at the green, the woods give way to a creek and deep rough. The woods run all the way on the right side.

A huge trap fills the left corner of the triangular carpet and catches short or hooked second shots. Over the green, a steep bank drops right off the rear into woods and a creek.

Putting can be long and tiresome. MANN.

Giants Win in 11 On Thompson Hit

Blow Scores Westrum, Ups Leaders' Streak to Six, 4-3

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Henry Thompson's single with two out in the 11th inning scored Wes Westrum from second base with the winning run as the New York Giants extended their winning streak to six straight today with a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Thompson's game-winning blow enabled Don Liddle, fourth Giant pitcher in the game, to receive credit for the victory, his fifth against three defeats. The little lefthander deserved the victory as he hurled four-hit, runless ball through the last seven innings.

Sal Maglie, gunning for his 12th victory and his third in a row over the Cubs, started for the Giants but he failed to last through the second.

STATE MEET COMING UP

Little Leaguers Move To District Wrap-Ups

With the Rome playoffs slated Aug. 9, Little Leaguers throughout the state are clearing up district titles this week.

Austell's Sweetwater Valley defeated Hogansville, 12-2, Wednesday night in the sixth district tournament to gain a title shot at College Park Thursday night.

Glenwood Hills took a lop-sided win over Decatur, 11-2, in the finals of the eighth district to insure themselves a spot in the Rome show.

Buckhead Little Leaguers eliminated two Marietta teams in the first round of a two-day tourney so Thursday night's seventh district finals scheduled for 5 p.m. at Bagley Park, will see two Northside teams clash for the state berth.

Socko Stockwell Jr., son of the former Cracker first baseman, paced Austell with a double and triple. Bob Clay hurled a two-hitter in the Glenwood triumph. And Woody Woodall had a homer and double in the National's seventh district win over the American Leaguers. —ANDERSON.

Carter Whips Flanagan on TV Triumph

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ex-lightweight champion Jimmy Carter outboxed nimble Glen Flanagan for a unanimous 10-round decision in a nationally televised bout at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

Carter, who has a Sept. 22 rematch with 135-pound king Paddy De Marco, won like the 3-1 favorite he was, but failed to even approach the knockout he predicted.

Carter, twice dethroned as lightweight champion, weighed 138 against 135½ for Flanagan, who had an 11-bout winning streak snapped.

Referee Frank Sikora voted for Carter 98-91, while Judge William O'Connell called it for the New York Negro 100-93 and Judge Howard Walsh, 99-90.

Loyalty Pulls UCLA's Bill Stits From All-Stars to Detroit Lions

Condensed From Wire Reports

The organizer of the College All-Star football game, sports editor Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune, denied Wednesday that halfback Bill Stits of UCLA was released from the All-Star camp as a "poor security risk."

Ward declared that Stits was released by Coach Jim Tatum of the All-Stars because he had too many backs and realized that the Detroit Lions "needed all the reserve talent they could assemble."

Stits was a draft choice of the Lions, National Football League champions who meet the All-Stars in Chicago a week from Friday night.

A Detroit sports editor had written that Stits was released because it was feared he would report All-Star plays and progress to the Lions.

Ward added that the Lions had asked for the release of Stits and another of their draft choices, Clemson end Dreher Gaskin. The boys were given their choice, Stits chooing to join the Lions, Gaskin to remain with the All-Stars.

Ward said the effort of the All-Star coaches to cooperate with the Lions should not be made to reflect on Stits' integrity.

MORE FOOTBALL: Illinois fullback Stan Wallace was lost to the All-Stars with a fractured left wrist. He's the only permanent casualty suffered by the Stars so far . . . Lt. Robert S. Cook, former Oklahoma A&M back, has succeeded Les Richter as coach of the Ft. Lewis football team. Richter, from California, has been released from active duty and joined the Los Angles Rams.

EMPIRE GAMES: Swimming and rowing occupied the day's scene. In the 440-yard freestyle, 16-year-old Gary Chapman of Australia set a games record of 4:39.8. English teams were upset in the eight-oar crew race by Canada and by New Zealand in the two-man sculls.

TENNIS: The United States' tennis brass adopted the Australian plan of training young tennis stars. Young prospects from 13 to 17 years old will travel the Eastern summer circuit together under the guidance of Jack Kramer and be drilled as a team in a day-night tennis course . . . Camp Gordon moved further ahead in the Third Army tennis tournament by placing three men in the singles quarter-finals.

GOLF—Ed (Porky) Oliver dropped a hole-in-one during a practice round at Tam O'Shanter. The All-America phase of promoter George May's golf gold mine opens Thursday.

MISCELLANY — International Olympic Committee president Avery Brundage declared after a visit to Russia that the Russians are preparing for the 1956 games in Australia and would not let diplomatic differences between the two countries keep them from competing.

MEMBER VISITS

Lowe Gets Vet Views First Hand

By BERT SPENCER

When Fifth District congressional candidate Wyman C. Lowe visits American Legion posts in the area, he goes not only as a veteran and a Legionnaire but also as a major in the Army Reserve.

The Atlanta attorney, who is a member of Legion Post No. 1 in Atlanta, is visiting Legion posts in the district to obtain members' views on current problems and to ask members individually for support in his campaign.

Lowe says he realizes most posts have rules against speeches by political candidates, so when he visits them he is careful to restrict his activities to shaking hands unless the officers ask him to say a few words.

The candidate says his interest in military matters dates back to 1933 when he first became a reserve officer. He kept his reserve status until 1941, when he volunteered for active duty.

Lowe was released from active duty in 1946 and took up his work in the reserves. He has attended various training sessions since then, including a two-week active duty assignment at Ft. Meade, Md., in April.

The attorney was promoted to major in February of this year. Most of his military career has been spent in quartermaster work.

After his April assignment, he says, he took time to visit Washington to do research for his congressional campaign.

Beautician, Aircraft Worker Quizzed in Road Slaying

A tall, red-haired beautician and a fellow aircraft worker of a mystery death victim were being questioned Wednesday in connection with the case.

The pair was being questioned in the death of Stanley Anthony Moss, 31, of 617 Glenwood Ave., SE, whose body was found Saturday night near his parked automobile on Highway 85 near Senoia.

Coweta County Sheriff Lamar Potts said the death of Moss at first was believed to have resulted from his being struck by an automobile. However, Potts pointed out, a medical examination revealed Moss was not intoxicated and the nature of the injuries did not bear out the hit-run theory.

PLANNED DATE

Atlanta officers said they had questioned a beautician with whom Moss had planned to go on a date Saturday night.

The beautician said Moss came by her home at approximately 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Det. Supt. Glyn Cowan related. However, Cowan said, she told Moss that she could not keep the date and that he left soon thereafter.

Police said they have found no further trace of the man's activities until two hours later when his 1950 model Plymouth was seen parked with headlights glaring on Highway 85, between Fayetteville and Senoia. The body was discovered sprawled near the car, the head crushed, at 11:30 p.m.

LOSS OF PISTOL

A new note of mystery was injected into the case when a fellow worker of Moss reported to police the loss of a .32-caliber nickleplated revolver, which he said he placed in the dashboard of Moss' auto before the two left on a weekend trip to Greenville, S. C., July 24.

The man, Robert E. Rogers of 25 Alexander St., NW, said he took the gun along for target practice and forgot to remove it when they returned.

Potts said no gun was found in the auto.

Cowan and Potts said officers were checking reports that Moss and an unidentified man went out on a double date Saturday night. They added police have been unable to establish the identity of the other man and two women.

Disabled Vet Dies, 2nd Hurt In Returning From Hospital

One disabled Army veteran was killed early Wednesday and another critically injured when their automobile plunged from the road and struck a tree on Highway 85 near the south Atlanta city limits, Clayton County police said.

Dale Betz, 27, of Chicago was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady Hospital, Ptl. Ralph Smith and J. A. Starr said. Allan Dean Camp, 26, of Riverdale was treated at Grady and later was transferred to Veterans Hospital.

Officers said Camp, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Camp, was in extremely critical condition with a fractured leg, head injuries and multiple cuts and bruises.

The mishap occurred at the intersection of New Highway 85 and Old Highway 85, within a few miles of Camp's home. Officers said the auto, which was virtually demolished, left the road and traveled 179 feet before striking a tree.

Wildcat Day Observed at Ft. Jackson

By ALEX JOINER JR
Constitution Staff Writer

FORT JACKSON, S. C., Aug. 4—Sunburned citizen-soldiers in Georgia's largest Army reserve unit went through their paces on "Wildcat Day" here Wednesday for scores of industrial and civic leaders and senior military officials from Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Strom Thurmond

The soldiers—368 officers and 1,258 enlisted men—are members of the 81st "Wildcat" Infantry Division, now in the final week of an annual two-week summer training period.

Earlier Wednesday Strom Thurmond, president of the 50,000-member Reserve Officers Assn. and former governor of South Carolina, called for "more manpower, weapons and facilities" for reserve units.

37TH ANNIVERSARY

"Wildcat Day," coincidentally, marked the 37th anniversary of the 81st, which was activated at then Camp Jackson, S. C., in August, 1917.

Greeting the guests, flown here from several points by the Air Force, were Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general, Third Army; Maj. Gen. R. F. Ennis, Fort Jackson 101st Airborne Division commander; and Brig. Gen. Carl T. Sutherland of Atlanta, 81st USAR, division commanders and members of their staffs.

During the day guests observed units of the 81st being tested for proficiency, witnessed a demonstration by the 81st's rifle team and saw a demonstration of infantry weapons and tanks in action.

OFFIERS LUNCHEON

Thurmond, speaking at a luncheon in the officers mess, agreed with Defense Secretary Wilson that if large-scale fighting broke out today the nation's military reserve setup "would be a scandal." He said reserves are not in combat readiness and "can't be until we get the manpower, the new weapons and the facilities we need." He suggested that draftees might be allowed to sign over into a reserve unit after their basic training.

Among the visitors were Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem Jr., of Atlanta, former Third Army commander; Fred Turner, president of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.; Frank W. Hulse, president of Southern Airways, and Millard A. Beckum, president of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce.

Tenn. Driver Gets 1-3 Yrs. in Injury Of Atlantans

An Oak Ridge man has been given a one-to-three-year prison sentence as the result of a Chattanooga accident last year in which Atlantans Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ennis each lost a leg.

Horace Johnson, 35, driver of a truck which struck the Atlanta couple June 23, 1953, was sentenced after pleading guilty to a felonious assault charge, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Dayton, Tenn.

Circuit Judge Alan S. Kelly pronounced the sentence in Dayton, the AP dispatch said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ennis were struck by the truck as they sat on a bench at a bus stop at Chattanooga. Widespread publicity followed the accident, and a subscription campaigned raised more than $13,000 for the couple.

Marietta Church Begins Building

Ground will be broken at 7:30 p.m. Thursday for a new $125,800 educational building at the First Methodist Church in Marietta.

R. R. Nash of Marietta is architect for the new building. The White Construction Co. is the contractor. Everett G. Livingston and P. B. Latimer head the church's building committee. The Rev. Paul Turner is pastor.

Heard Family To Meet On 119th Anniversary

The family and relatives of the late Judge John S. Heard Sr., pioneer citizen of north Fulton County, will meet at the old home place on Heard drive in Atlanta Sunday to celebrate the 119th anniversary of the judge's birth, family spokesmen announced Wednesday. A basket dinner will be served at noon.

BAT ALARM

MANCHESTER, Conn. (U.P.)—When firemen rushed into the attic of Mr. and Mrs. Potter's home the couple explained that the dense, acrid smoke pouring out of the dwelling was from sulphur candles they are burning "to rid the attic of bats." A neighbor had turned in the alarm.

Why Don't Managers Try The Mash-Pinch On Market Menaces?

By YOLANDE GWIN

Are you a tomato masher?

When you go shopping at a supermarket do you rip the cellophane cover on the frankfurter packages to test their firmness?

And do you stroll through the aisles with your food buggy at low speed, with the nonchalance of a young mother in the Easter parade?

If you do these things as well as a lot of others, you are the despair of the store manager and a financial loss to the company.

It's not a funny story. Actions of customers in retail stores result in losses in both merchandise and money.

Tomato pinchers and samplers are headaches to store managers.

"Cartons of cottage cheese get the worst treatment," said one clerk. "Customers don't seem to care how much they punch and break box tops. Next customer won't buy it, it sours, and there's a loss on our hands."

WHIRLED LOOK

Meat shufflers are bad too. Packaged meats look like they have been whirled for hours in a washing machine after some of the customers finish poking around (but seldom buying) and disarranging the neatly packed rows.

One store manager said that little boys are the worst offenders at these counters.

Not as customers, but as onlookers. They delight in tearing the colored labels off the packages.

No customer is satisfied with a prepared basket of fruit, like peaches, says L. V. Roberson, manager of a super market on Highland avenue. "They reach over and take some from another basket with the result that the one they buy has twice the amount than we planned.

HID HULLS

"Just today, a woman came in and bought a bag of beans. As she wandered through the store she shelled them into another bag and then hid the hulls behind the spice shelf."

It's a good idea to put all your eggs in your one basket as is illustrated by this trick:

People open cartons of eggs. If they don't buy them they leave the cartons open and the next customer, not knowing it, picks up the box and eggs crash and splatter on floor.

Children, not tied to Mama's apron strings, are tops as market menaces. They play ball with lemons and potatoes, take bites from apples, open the freezer and help themselves to small cups of ice cream.

One manager said that there was a football game going on one day down the center aisle of his store. "Fortunately I stopped it before they kicked goal.

"The pigskin? Why one of our best watermelons!"

Being 'Chief' Is Expensive

You can beware of Greeks bearing gifts, if you want to be classical. Me, I'm going to beware of Indians passing out honorary chieftanships.

Gen. A. R. Glancy, the Atlanta industrialist is himself a chief of the Ottawas and it ain't all grease paint and glory.

Recently when I wrote about Chief Rising Sun, General Glancy was reminded of his own adventures as Pontiac, chief of the Ottawas—and a hilarious tale they make, for sure.

"When we brought out the Pontiac car, a federation of 21 tribes wanted to show their appreciation by adopting me," he recalled. "My advertising department saw considerable publicity, started to rent the Los Angeles stadium, but the Indians were very serious and vetoed the idea.

"They said that I should visit an Arizona Indian reservation for about one month to run, jump, ride, wrestle and demonstrate that I had what it takes to become a Chief. I dumped that one because of the rush of business.

"Then they said that they would shorten the ceremony to just a 'Blood Brother' initiation. I and another Indian would stand, one-legged, in a bucket and a vein in his leg and one in mine would be opened. This blood mixture would be drunk by all Chiefs, including me, and I would become a Blood Brother. My doctor certified that I was anemic.

"Finally, Mrs. Glancy and I met some 50 Indians in a beautiful grove up in the hills back of Los Angeles. There were 21 speeches, an exchange of 42 gifts and I was adopted as a Brave after a stimulating lunch, or maybe I should say after a lunch of stimulants. There were 21 more speeches and I was elevated to the Chieftan's rank and became Chief Pontiac.

"Mrs. Glancy became Princess Washtongue. The gifts were many beautiful headgears and blankets, concealing nine million buffalo moths which, back home, not only ate all of the gifts but most of our Oriental rugs and woolen blankets.

"During the speechmaking I asked the interpreter what they were saying. He said, 'All the same thing. My wigwam is your wigwam. My ponies are your ponies. Come and see me sometime.' So I switched my replies to about the same thing.

"The Indians' conception of 'ponies' were Pontiac cars. These Indians traveled the country in medicine shows and carnivals. All of them apparently put Pontiac, Mich., on their itinerary with the idea of receiving as gifts some of Chief Pontiac's 'ponies' and living at his wigwam. It got so that I told the police that whenever they saw an Indian to put him in a $2-a-day commercial hotel, watch him until he left town, and send me the bill.

"This went on for a long time. Ten years after the initiation, the police chief of Brunswick, Ga., found me at Sea Island. He said that an Indian show was stranded in Brunswick, owing a food bill. The Indians told him that Chief Pontiac would pay. He did. How did these Indians know where I was?

"I refused adoption by Canadian Indians—and that was the last of the Indians. The moral of this tale is, 'Never let an Indian adopt you.'"

Pilot's Club President-Elect To Preside at Meeting

Mrs. Edith McBride Cameron, Gainesville, Fla., president-elect, Pilot International, will speak at the charter presentation meeting of the Pilot Club of Decatur Friday evening at East Lake Country Club.

Lose Fat Before Pregnancy

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The newest trend in weight control is to bring weight down to healthy normal before starting a family. One young woman who consulted her doctor about starting a family was advised to take off a dozen excess pounds first. The doctor explained it this way:

"Say you gain 20 pounds with the first baby, and after the baby arrives you retain five of those pounds, and due to the bigger appetite, gain another five. The same thing can happen with the second child, and in a few short years, you can be 25 pounds or more above normal."

BECOME BORED

The doctor told her frankly that he had seen so many happy, shapely girls lose their figures and turn into bored overweight women with aches and ailments.

An Ohioan reduced 22 pounds before starting her family. She writes: "You might be interested in knowing that a year ago I weighed 150 pounds for my 5'3". Under my doctor's supervision, I reduced to 128 pounds.

At the time she wrote, she was expecting her first child a few months hence. We would like to hear again from this exceptionally wise young woman.

FOLLOW ADVICE

If you are excessively overweight, your doctor will suggest curbing calories, and he may advise that you reduce. However, the reducing diet for this period is far different than the usual low calorie fare. It must always be planned to meet the increased requirements for the essential nutrients.

The protective materials required during this special period can be included on 1,400 calories a day. Pregnancy is a period of growth, so never be so foolish as to diet on inadequate fare or without your doctor's approval.

The best plan of all is to bring your weight to healthy normal before starting a family. Also, control your weight gains during the pregnancy period.

Case histories show that expectant mothers who follow a highly protective diet as far as building materials go, while sharply curtailing sweets and fattening foods, have normal size babies but control their own weight gain.

Couple Plans Fall Wedding

Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Winslow of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Ridgefield, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ann Winslow, to Dr. Richard Coleman Rhame, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold E. Rhame of Brooklyn.

The wedding will take place on Sept. 11 in Ridgefield.

Miss Winslow attended Rosemary Hall, the University of Rochester, and is a graduate of the Diller-Quaile School of Music. She was presented to society at the Yuletide Ball in 1946. She is a member of the Brooklyn Junior League and the Heights Casino.

A graduate of Princeton and George Washington University School of Medicine, Dr. Rhame is interning at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Remedies for Travel Ills

There is no more miserable traveling companion than the carsick child unless it is the carsick adult.

The two differ in that the adult insists he is going to be sick and often won't go at all while the child insists he is not going to be sick and insists upon going.

The car-sick child starts out as optimistic as though he were headed for the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow. He is merry, he is gay, he is talkative. Then suddenly a little voice pipes up, "I feel sick,"

'IT'S FOR REAL"

Is it real? Its consequences are. An adult may talk or think himself into motion sickness, but a child rarely does. He simply gets sick. Then chaos.

Many remedies are proposed—a tight belt, a piece of candy every five miles, staying home, etc., but the best remedy lies in prevention. Avoid long, unbroken journeys, overfatigue, and overexcitement, and never give the child a large meal before starting.

These are the basic rules, but there are many tricks that help. Dr. Alan Porter, in the British magazine, Family Doctor, lists these:

Don't drive too fast, especially where there are winding roads and humps, bumps, and bridges.

If you have a choice of cars (and who has?), select a bumpy open car with hard springs rather than a luxurious inclosed one with springs like down cushions.

Give the child a light meal before starting and put him in the front seat beside the driver. Never mention car sickness, but offer him a piece of stick candy every half hour or so.

PLAY GAMES

Every half hour stop the car, and have everybody get out. Make a game of it. Walk around the car three times if there is nothing else do do, but walk.

Train sickness should be attacked in much the same way (walks, of course, will have to be up and down the aisle.) Sea sickness is more involved, but it can be softened or even prevented by having a good sleep the night before, a light meal before embarking, and by watching the horizon rather than the ship's rail when walking around the deck.

Market Rebounds After Fast Selloff

3,620,000 Shares Traded; Biggest Day Since 1951

By ARTHUR MERIMS

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—The stock market weathered an extremely sharp selloff today, rebounding to a steady position by the close.

The tremendous activity generated by a prolonged selling wave and an equally vigorous recovery pushed volume to 3,620,000 shares from 2,970,000 yesterday. It was the most active session since Jan. 17, 1951, when volume totaled 3,860,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 20 cents from its highest level since 1929 to $134.20. But this decline was actually caused by several stocks which traded ex-dividend today. Of the 1,222 issues traded, there were 477 advances and 467 declines. Only 2 stocks touched new 1954 lows while 146 set new peaks.

ORDERS TO SELL

The market started as if to continue its week-long advance with aircrafts and railroads finding ready buyers. Then, shortly before noon, selling orders began to pour into brokerage houses and the high-speed ticker tape fell behind the stepped-up volume as much as four minutes.

The tape was late for half an hour, longest period for a late tape this year either on the down or up side. Stocks hardest hit during the shakeout were the aircrafts, carriers, steels and copper mining companies—those rising most sharply earlier this week. Declines extended to 5⅜ points (Youngstown Sheet) but were mostly around two points.

AIRCRAFTS RISE

The tape cleared shortly after noon but the trading pace slackened only slightly. Almost immediately, aircrafts began to resume their rise. They were followed upward by motors and motion pictures. However, steels and chemicals continued at depressed levels, though above their lows. Shortly before the close, railroads, distillers, oils and copper mining issues lost their upward momentum and turned irregular.

The American Stock Exchange was narrowly mixed as volume climbed to 700,000 shares from 630,000 yesterday.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Renewed easiness in raw markets brought selling into both world and domestic sugar futures.

The domestic raws declined three points to 6.10 cents a pound delivered on sales of Cuban, Philippine and Puerto Rican. It was reported that further offerings were available at that new level.

In the world market raws were held at 3.15 cents a pound F.O.B. Cuba, but buyers were lacking. This price compares with 3.17 cents quoted Tuesday.

Meantime demand for refined remained mostly for immediate needs.

GEORGIA BUSINESS

Retail Sales Show Increase in May

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Georgia retailers rang up $308.2 million in sales during May, 3.5 per cent or nearly $10 million more than in the same month a year ago.

In its latest retail sales report the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday the May figure also surpasses that of April by more than $7 million.

Such statistics effectively demonstrate the continuing progress and growth of the state as a whole.

They also show, however, that the increased prosperity was not universal.

May retail sales in more than one-fourth (46) of Georgia's 159 counties failed to equal the year-ago mark. And in 55 counties the May dollar volume fell below the preceding month.

While sales in Mettropolitan Atlanta last May climbed to a level more than $6 million above a year ago, several other counties registered sizeable declines.

In Lowndes, for instance, retail sales plummeted from $8.2 million a year ago to $4.5 million last May. Chamber officials said the location of the National Container Corp. plant near Valdosta during that month last year pushed the 1953 total to an abnormal height.

Other notable declines in retail sales around the state showed up in Muscogee (Columbus), down $1.2 million; Troup County (LaGrange), down $1.1 million; Chatham (Savannah), down $670,000; Whitfield (Dalton), down $374,000, and Tift (Tifton), down $229,000.

Some counties, on the other hand, have had remarkable increases.

Camden County, down in the Southeastern corner of the state, heads this list. Its retail sales soared more than 260 per cent, from $650,000 a year ago to $1.7 million last May.

Also helping to set the state's pace, though not in the same class percentagewise, were Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb counties.

Walter Cates, executive vice president of the State Chamber, said "increased employment and earnings in Georgia during May were among the important factors contributing to the encouraging sales report," for the state, which is based on official sales tax figures.

Assets $985 Million

The total assets of Georgia's 301 banks as of June 30 reached $985.7 million, an increase of $20.5 million since June 30, 1953, it was reported Wednesday by Superintendent A. B. Persons of the State Banking Department. The total assets reflect increases of nearly $13.7 million in deposits and more than $5 million in capital accounts.

Last year the 298 state banks had 15 branches. This year's total of 301 banks operate 16 branches. "It is encouraging to note," Persons said, "that the report reflects a continued growth of the state banking institutions in Georgia."

Utilities Set Record

The nation's electric utilities produced a record 453,520,531,000 Kilowatt-hours of electricity in the year ended June 30, according to the Federal Power Commission. The output was 7.6 per cent above production in the year ended June 30, 1953.

National Advertising Above 1st Half 1953

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—National advertising in the first six months of this year ran 9 per cent ahead of the corresponding half of 1953, Printers Ink reported today.

The weekly magazine of advertising, management and sales said its general index set a new high for the year of 173 in June, compared with the 1935-39 average of 35 and the 1953 average of 158.

The general index for all advertising for June was up 7 per cent from the like month last year and up 4 from May, 1954.

For the first half of the year, network television was up 34 per cent from a year ago, outdoor advertising up 5, business papers up 4, newspapers and magazine up 3, and network radio down 8 per cent.

House Bill Hits Auto Bootlegging

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—A bill aimed to prevent "bootlegging" of new automobiles by unauthorized dealers was passed today by the House.

This sends it to the Senate where prospects for action are doubtful. The Senate Commerce Committee agreed today to ask the Senate to authorize an investigation of "bootlegging." An inquiry of any length would bar action before Congress adjourns.

The bill eases the anti-trust laws to permit car manufacturers to make and enforce agreements with franchised dealers against disposing of new-model cars to unauthorized dealers for cut-rate sale.

Agreements of this type were standard practice in the automobile trade prior to 1948 when the attorney general held they violated the anti-trust laws.

In a report to the House, the Judiciary Committee said the bootlegging practice threatens the economic stability of franchised dealers, asserting:

"Unless the bootlegging of new cars is curbed . . . the entire automotive industry is threatened with a complete breakdown of the distribution system at the local level, with grave consequences to car dealers, the manufacturers, and their workers."

Business in Brief

Colonial Stores, Inc., of Atlanta Wednesday declared regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents and 62½ cents on preferred 4 per cent and 5 per cent stock respectively, and a 50 cent dividend on common stock. All are payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 18.

BROUGHER TO SPEAK

DARRINGTON APPOINTED

H. Stacy Darrington, manager of the Credit Bureau of Atlanta, has been appointed a member of the attendance and publicity committee of the Southern Consumer Credit Clinic to be held in Charlotte on Sept. 15.

COCA-COLA DIVIDEND

The board of directors of Coca-Cola International Corp. has declared a dividend of $7.40 a share on outstanding common stock, payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 14. The corporation's net profit for the three months ended June 30, after reserve for taxes and all charges, was $1,173,437.

GE Denounces Talk of Shifting Plants to Dixie

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—A General Electric Co. spokesman said today union leaders were talking the "sheerest nonsense" when they claimed the company might shift big parts of its operations to low-wage Southern or rural regions.

Officers of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, headed by James B. Carey, said last night contract negotiations had reached a deadlock, partly because of GE's failure to give assurance against such transfers.

The company spokesman, scoffing at this claim, said "Carey is obviously interested not in the facts but in getting some face-saver to mask his bargaining mistakes in not accepting our offer two months ago."

He said 80 out of 83 unions—all but the IUE and two "small unions"—have accepted the new terms, including a five-cents-plus hourly pay boost, and vacation and holiday improvements.

As to the union's claims that the company has failed to provide assurances against major transfers of operations, the spokesman said:

"We have answered them endlessly in the past—going to great lengths to reassure the union as to our intentions about plant locations.

"Our expansion at new locations is expected to be only a small part of our overall growth. Our major growth is expected to come from the expansion and the improvement of production at our old locations."

NLRB Okays Employers' Union Talk

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board, reversing a long-established rule, decided 3-2 today that an employer may legally question his workers about union affiliation or activities if no implication of reprisal or benefit is involved.

The majority opinion emphasized, however, that the decision does not grant employers any blanket license to interrogate their employes.

"The test is whether, under all the circumstances, the interrogation reasonably tends to restrain or interfere with the employes in the exercise of rights guaranteed by the (Taft-Hartley) act," it said.

The majority in the case was composed of chairman Guy Farmer and members Philip Rodgers and Albert C. Beeson, all appointed by President Eisenhower. The dissenters, both appointed by former President Truman, were members Abe Murdock and Ivar Peterson.

The ruling was made in a case involving the Blue Flash Express, Inc., New Orleans, and Local 270 of the AFL Teamsters Union. The union charged the firm with unfair labor practices for calling in employes and questioning them about union membership.

Rust Report Spurs Wheat

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—Wheat advanced while feed grains and soybeans, after firming early, closed with an easy tone on the Board of Trade today. Rye rose in sympathy with wheat.

The advance in wheat was attributed to more reports of rust in spring wheat, a bullish private crop forecast on spring wheat and firmness in northwestern cash markets. Cash wheat gained 4¼ cents at Minneapolis.

Wheat closed 1⅞-2⅞ higher, corn ⅛-⅜ lower, oats ⅛-½ lower, rye ½ to one cent higher, soybeans 1¾-2¾ lower and lard 13 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Following the weather bureau's weekly crop report yesterday, which noted eastern North Dakota was suffering from a severe rust infestation, a private crop report by C. M. Galvin of Francis I. duPont & Co. also stressed the rust menace.

Galvin estimated spring wheat production at 204 million bushels, a substantial drop from the Agriculture Department's July forecast of 230 million, and said "serious rust damage is rather general over the spring wheat area."

Galvin's report also had some early influence on corn and soybeans, both of which climbed with wheat in early dealings. He estimated corn production at 3,013 million bushels compared with the government's 3,311 million bushels a month ago and said, "severe damage was inflicted upon the crop in the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana, the extreme lower part of Iowa and all of Missouri."

Income Rate 286 Billion On June 30

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Personal income was running at an annual rate of $286,500,000,000 at the end of June, about the same as in May, the Office of Business Economics of the Department of Commerce reported today.

For the first half of this year, personal income ran at an average annual rate of $285,500,000,000, fractionally ahead of the levels for the corresponding period of 1953. Last year has been described by such government officials as secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks as the "biggest year" in business history in this country.

Personal income estimates are compiled each month by the OBE, as a guide for economists and for business in general. The estimates include wages and salaries, the net income of proprietorships and partnerships—farm and non-farm—as well as dividends and interest, net rents received by landlords, and other types of individual income. The annual rates, which are used to facilitate comparison with previous annual totals, represent the seasonally adjusted dollar totals for each month multiplied by 12.

Atlanta Produce

Fruit and vegetable trading was fairly light on the Atlanta State Farmers Market Wednesday morning, but supplies were moderate, according to the AMS.

Beans held about steady with limas or butterbeans selling 2.50-3.00, depending on the quality; pole beans were going at 3.00 per bushel for the best available, but much of the stock sold at 1.50-2.00, and green snap beans moved at 2.00-2.50 bushel. Cabbage continued to sell at 1.50 per sack for good quality, and cantaloupes were 1.50-1.75, with many ripe selling at 1.00 per bushel hamper. Collards were selling mostly at 25c, and the corn market was generally 30-35c per dozen ears. Cucumbers were anywhere from 2.50-3.50, depending on the quality. California grapes continued to decline in price and good Red Malagas and Cardinals were good buys at 3.00-3.50 per 40-lb. bag. Okra was going at 3.00 for the good stock and somewhat lower for the large and fair quality merchandise.

Peaches were still quite plentiful on the market with good quality Elbertas selling at 3.00-3.50 per bushel, and some of the ripe and poorer quality as low as 1.25 per bushel, but good orchard run stock sold at 2.50 per bushel. Some of the best large South Carolina peaches brought as much as 4.00 per bushel. Georgia pears continued to be available at unchanged prices, and field peas sold from 1.00-1.50, according to quality. Potatoes were mostly around 3.75-4.00 per cwt. for U.S. No. 1s, and sweet potatoes sold at 4.75-5.00 per bushel with poorer quality much lower. Squash continued to sell at 2.00-2.50 per bushel and turnip greens were 1.25-1.50 per bushel. Watermelons were moving slowly on a dull market with a top price of 75-1.00 per melon for good Georgia stock. Other melons were as low as 15c apiece for small and poorly shaped. Most other items were about steady.

Coffee Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Pressure of Colombian gree coffee on the actual market here brought further selling in Santos coffee futures and prices declined.

Importers said arrivals of Colombian coffee beans continue to depress the green coffee market. Roaster demand, they added, was slow, due to disappointing consumer buying.

Coffee spot Santos No. 4 closed at 86.75N cost and friend offerings include Santos bourbons 3S at 87.00-88.00N and 5S 85.50-86.50N.

Santos No. 4 "S" futures closed 25 to 80 lower. Sales 214 contracts.

Cotton Trade Range Slim

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Cotton futures continued to trade within narrow price limits today. Final prices were 10 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher. A return of dry weather to most of the belt and continued high temperatures helped the market, but advances encountered hedges and New Orleans selling. Brokers said some of the hedges were mostly against increased movement of lower California and Arizona cotton.

During the first two days of this week, sales of spot cotton at Southern markets totaled in excess of 42,000 bales compared with 27,000 bales on Thursday and Friday of last week. Dealers expect a continuation of a quiet cotton futures market until after the government Aug. 1 cotton crop report is published next Monday. Some brokers, however, expressed belief that there may be a spurt of activity on Friday when dealers even up accounts to receive the report.

Most private crop estimates issued to date on prospective 1954 cotton production have held around 12,000,000 bales. Average guess of 65 members of the New York Cotton Exchange was for a cotton crop of 12,212,000 bales.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Sentiment in the cotton textile market was heightened by a flurry of buying of a few class "B" sheetings for the bag trade. The yardage involved was not large, but it was the most impressive for some time. In the meantime, business in print cloths remained quiet, with prices firm.

Wool goods sales were mostly routine, but the trade revealed there was a slight improvement in demand for summer weight fabrics.

A leading rayon manufacturer on Tuesday revised prices for both bright and dull rayon staple to meet a 34-cent-a-pound price established in the market. This price was about 2 cents above recently reported market prices for the domestic rayon staple.

Ga. Military Bases To Get Added Funds

Special to The Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 — The Supplemental Appropriations Bill passed Wednesday by the Senate carries funds for a $1,322,900,000 military construction program, including 10 projects in Georgia.

It provides $910,000,000 in new appropriations and $412,900,000 from unobligated balances for the programs, embracing Army, Navy and Air Force projects, in the year ending next June 30.

The Senate added $352,403,000 to the House appropriation of $557,597,000. The differences must be adjusted in a House-Senate Conference Committee before Congressional action can be completed.

Georgia projects in the bill approved by the Senate with the appropriations are:

Army—General Depot, Atlanta, $100,000.

Air Force—Robins Air Force Base, $14,645,000; Moody Air Force Base, $339,000; Dobbins Air Force Base, $576,000; Hunter Air Force Base, $8,900,000; Turner Air Force, $5,661,000.

Navy — Auxiliary Air Station, Glynco, $6,185,000; Marine Supply Depot, Albany, $452,000; fuel storage, Glynco $346,000; maintenance shops, Marine Depot Albany, $440,000.

Indiana Agents Probe Gary Vice, Gambling

GARY, Ind., Aug. 4—(AP)—State police detectives launched a secret investigation of gambling and vice in this rugged steel city today.

They came on orders of Gov. George Craig, who did not disclose the size of the force.

"You don't tell outlaws what the law is doing," he explained.

Georgian Missing on Downed B17

MELBOURNE, Fla., Aug. 4 (AP). One man was missing and presumed drowned and five others were rescued today when a four-engine B17 plane plunged into the ocean shortly after taking off from Patrick Air Force Base.

A diver searched the wreckage 40 feet below the surface while Air Force and Coast Guard air and surface craft criss-crossed the area.

Maj. A. S. Pelle, public information officer at the base, said the plane took off on a routine mission about 4:16 a.m. (EST). It went into the ocean about a mile east of the end of the runway.

Crash boats roared out to the scene. Five men were found floating on a life raft. They were cut and bruised but not injured seriously, Maj. Pelle said.

Cause of the crash was not expected to be determined until the wreckage was brought to the surface and examined.

Patrick AFB identified the missing man as Airman First Class William J. Hunter, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter of Blairsville, Ga.

Youth Is Killed In Indian Game

A game of cowboys and Indians played with a loaded shotgun Wednesday resulted in the death of a 17-year-old Negro youth, police said.

James Fanning of 211 Laurel Ave., SW, was killed by a shotgun blast, Dets. J. W. Ellington and H. E. Burdett said.

Detectives were searching for a 14-year-old playmate who, they said, was enacting the role of holding off an Indian charge when the shooting occurred.

No-Fire Week

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (UP)—President Eisenhower today proclaimed the week of Oct. 3 as fire prevention week.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	2 diamonds
Pass	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of diamonds.

Half a loaf was no better than none, declarer learned to his grief in the play of today's hand. He had two good plays to make. While he measured up to the first half of the program, failure to comply with the second half nullified his good start.

The final contract did not sound impressive, but in tournament play a two-spade hand carries as much weight as some hand that offers a slam.

The bidding was of the highly competitive type which characterizes match-point play. South, tho he had made a shaded third hand bid, declined to give up the fight at two diamonds and out of deference to partner's redouble he made one more try. North, having previously announced a good hand, was content with a mere return to two spades.

West opened the two of diamonds, the jack was played from dummy, and East won with the ace. In the hope that partner held a fast trump trick East returned the five of hearts with the expectation of obtaining a third round ruff. South, of course, played low. West won with the ace and returned the suit which declarer won in dummy with the jack. Inasmuch as East had shown an obvious highlow in hearts, the trump finesse was not to be considered. Declarer saw that his contract was safe if West had three spades, provided the trump finesse was refused. He therefore played the ace and another spade, hoping in this manner to strip East of his trumps. But East indicated to partner that he held three of the suit by playing first the four and then the two. This is the classic "trump echo" which announces that the defender has another trump and is desirous of obtaining a ruff. On the heart continuation East put his nine of spades to gold use and then returned a diamond.

Declarer was then obliged to attack the club suit himself and could not avoid the loss of two tricks, incurring a 50-point penalty.

Declarer's early management of the hand, including refusal of the trump finesse, was quite up to par. But he omitted one slight precaution which would have permitted him to bring home the contract, after winning the heart return. He should first have cashed the king of diamonds and ruffed the low diamond in his own hand, stripping himself of that suit. Then would come the ace and another trump. East would obtain the heart ruff, to be sure, but now the burden of opening the club suit would fall on East's shoulders. A low club would come back and since the bidding clearly marks West with the ace, declarer's one hope is that East holds the queen. Declarer, of course, would play low, and West must use his ace to win the trick.

Touro Synagogue in Newport, R.I., is the oldest Jewish house of worship in the United States says the National Geographic Society.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VanDELLEN

Carbon Dioxide Aids Mild Nervousness

I hesitate to write about the use of carbon dioxide gas in the treatment of nervousness because results have been so controversial. Examples of startling cures have been reported by physicians who favor the method, and vice versa.

The plan is not generally recommended for victims of mental ailments serious enough to require institutionalization, but it has been used to eliminate symptoms resulting from tension, depression and anxiety. A few stutterers also have been helped.

Carbon dioxide treatment was introduced more than six years ago by a Chicago psychiatrist, who was looking for a physical remedy to combat mild nervous and mental disturbances.

The plan was patterned after shock therapy, which has proved successful in many cases of mental illness. A mixture of 30 per cent carbon dioxide and 70 per cent oxygen is inhaled until unconsciousness ensues, usually after 20 to 25 breaths. While coming to, the patient experiences unusual dreams, with or without emotional reaction.

He is asked to recall his sensations upon awakening because this is part of the treatment. It allows the individual to recall past events and life situations that have a bearing on his neurotic tendencies.

The rationale of carbon dioxide therapy is based on the theory that the causes of nervousness are buried deep in the subconscious mind.

Outward manifestations such as anxiety, palpitation or abdominal pain are but symbols of an inner conflict. The problem is how to interpret and desymbolize these symptoms to overcome the individual's neurotic tendencies.

Wardens Praise Spalding Stories Of Rehabilitation

Jack Spalding, Atlanta Constitution editorial writer, has been given an award of merit by the Georgia Prison Wardens' Association for his "work in the encouragement of released prisoners."

In a resolution passed at a recent meeting in Augusta, the wardens' association noted that Spalding "has presented this problem (of released prisoners) to the people of the state through the columns of The Atlanta Constitution in a highly creditable manner."

The association pointed out it has been difficult for the wardens themselves to impress the public with the necessity of employers' giving released prisoners "a chance to work and reclaim their lives." The resolution praised Spalding's "presentation and understanding of this vital problem in penal administration."

Services Wednesday For E. B. Rustin, Bibb

SAVANNAH, Aug. 4 (AP)—Funeral services for Enoch B. Rustin, 58, of Macon, who died here Monday at the Central of Georgia Hospital, were held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Mt. Carmal Church near Collins. Burial was in the church cemetery.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Competition Spurs Interest in Church

Dr. Zeke, 50, attended a recent meeting of the religious executives in charge of Men's Work in the major Protestant denominations.

I had been asked to address the group and suggest ideas which they could pass along to their vast manpower of some 11 million adult males.

In my speech I urged more use of the "lighted" schoolhouse idea whereby churches rent the local school gymnasium or swimming pool one night per week for use of their youth.

I also stressed the need for more competition between Sunday school classes, church softball teams, etc.

"Dr. Crane, I am greatly encouraged to hear you suggest contests and competition for youth," Dr. Zeke informed me afterwards.

"For many years I occupied pulpits in our large cities and I have always felt as you do.

"But it has been routine for the home office of our churches to soft-pedal competition and to veto rivalry.

"Instead, they argue that Christianity should teach cooperation and brotherhood, but not competition.

"Yet I have always felt that rivalry is the spice of social life and the zest that adds a wholesome tonic to church progress."

EFFETE RELIGIONISTS

Many leaders of various denominations have expressed the same view as Dr. Zeke.

Apparently, we have gone through a "communistic" era in religion where sturdy American competition and rivalry have been disdained as un-Christian.

SISSY RELIGIONISTS

Competition is not immoral or un-Christian. And rivalry is the spice that adds zest to thriving churches.

Contests will zoom attendance remarkably at Sunday school or Young People's Meetings. It is the yeast that makes healthy churches bubble over with young people.

But this sissy, communistic view of abolishing competition has crept into many churches and even into our schools. Many of the latter no longer offer specific numerical grades.

Instead of giving Johnny 97 in spelling and Billy 73, they mark both boys "E," meaning they are working "efficiently" as regards their mental capacities.

This is rank communism enshrined by sissy pedagogues. It is the same idea as "averaging" football scores and then giving both teams a tie for each contest or an "E" for Effort.

Jesus was no sissy. He also believed in competition, for he sent the 70 disciples ahead of him, two by two, to recruit "bigger" crowds.

That was modern advertising strategy. And advertising is a distinctly American competitive characteristic. It typifies "free enterprise" instead of the stagnation of communism.
